Foreword: the global economic framework

After the strong growth in 2017 and early 2018, global economic activity slowed notably in the second half of last year, reflecting a convergence of factors affecting major economies. Weaker global economic growth, volatility in financial markets and tighter monetary conditions in developed countries, among others were at the root of the slow-down.

As a result of these developments, global economic growth is set to moderate in the near term and is estimated to pick up modestly in 2020. All key forecasting organisations such as IMF, OECD or the World bank confirm this weakened global economic trend (real GDP):

	2017	2018	2019 (forecast)	2020 (forecast)
OECD:	+3.7%	+3.5%	+3.2%	+3.4%
IMF:	+3.8%	+3.6%	+3.3%	+3.6%
World Bank:	+3.1%	+3.0%	+2.6%	+2.7%

If we look back at the EU-28 zone, the gross domestic product forecasts follow the same patterns but remain much more modest compared to world levels and do not show, according to the latest estimates, a solid recovery of the economic activity after the weak 2019 as shown below:

	2017	2018	2019 (forecast)	2020 (forecast)
European Commission:	+2.5%	+2.0%	+1.4%	+1.4%

Such loss in the vitality of the EU economy and the shaky political framework surrounding the EU 28 manufacturing industry during 2018 were reflected in the main indicators confirming the difficult route facing the EU industry for the near future (source EUROSTAT):

Falling production pace:	+1.6%	(+3.5% in 2017, +1.9% in 2016)
Drop of the turnover development:	+3.5%	(+6.6% in 2017, +0.1% in 2016)
Weak employment growth:	+1.3%	(+1.8% in 2017, +1.3% in 2016)

Both European and international economic developments impacted negatively the world traded goods in volumes which loses momentum. Moreover, trade tensions identified in 2018 (i.e. new tariffs and retaliatory measures) do persist in 2019 affecting widely the growth expectations for the world merchandise trade volume as it is shown by WTO preliminary estimates and projections:

	2017	2018 (estimate)	2019 (forecast)	2020 (forecast)
WTO:	+4.6%	+3.0%	+2.6%	+3.0%

It is against this economic context that EU-28 textile and clothing trade should be valued for the year 2018 as described in this bulletin¹.

¹ Please refer back also to Bulletin 2018-4 for the textile and clothing 2018-2019 industry forecasts and to Bulletin 2019-1 for the first part of the 2018 textile and clothing trade analysis.

Trends in Textile & Clothing Exports in 2018

Amidst this general decreasing activity, the EU-28 textiles & clothing sectors exhibited similar behaviour in terms of production. According to EUROSTAT, textile production slightly decreased by -0.6% (+2.9% in 2017 and +1.4% in 2016) a trend similar to 2015 (-0.7%), whereas clothing production contracted again by -2.4% (-2.0% in 2017, +0.3% in 2016, -1.6% in 2015).

In the less positive economic "order", the textiles & clothing sectors taken as a whole managed, in 2018, to maintain an offensive posture in conquering world markets even though the yearly changes were not as robust as the ones of the previous year. The yearly changes were as follows:

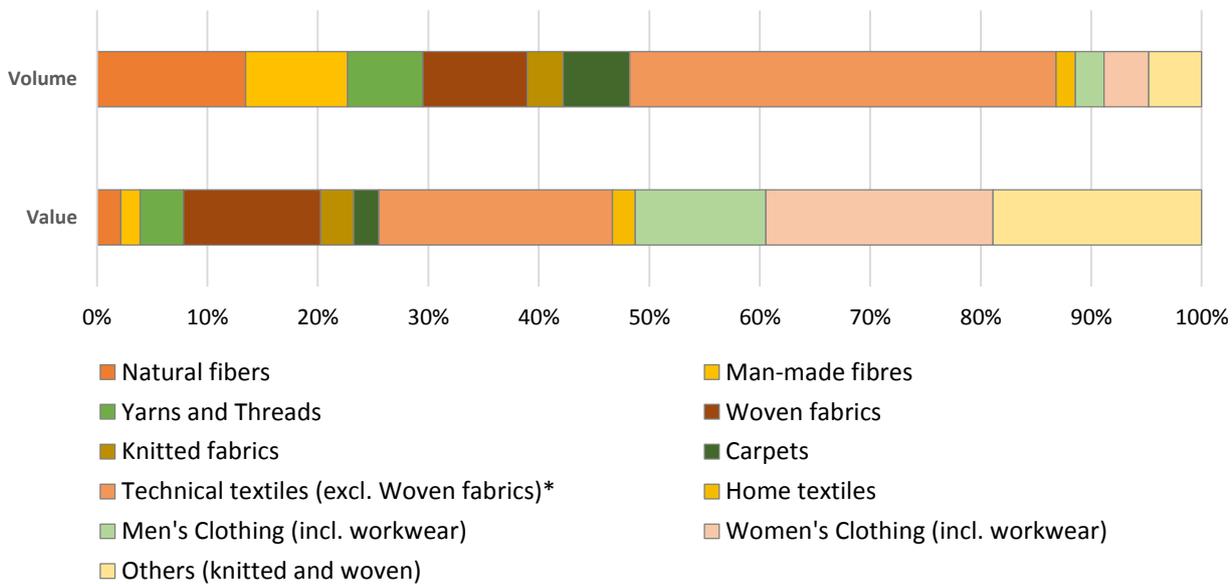

- Exports of textiles & clothing outside the EU-28 in value: +4.7% (+6.9% in 2017)
- Exports of textiles & clothing outside the EU-28 in volume: +2.6% (+5.9% in 2017)

Those positive results were reached despite uneasy trends in the Euro to US dollar exchange rate between the two halves of 2018. Moreover, sales progress was also due to the high level of the average export prices. Indeed, compared to the imports' ones, the 2018 extra-EU clothing export prices were 3.3 times higher on average while the average EU textile export prices were from 1.8 to 2 times higher (with and without natural fibres) than the imported one's last year. This suggests correspondingly that part of the export performances was the result of a combination of local EU production and of re-export of sub-contracted production mostly, but not only, originating in the EU neighbouring partners countries.

Considering the industrial patterns and relationships existing inside of the EU-28 and despite the Eastern European exporters' dynamism during the 2015-2018 period (+21% of exports since 2015), the Western part of the EU continues to account for the largest share of total extra-EU-28 exports. In 2018, the EU-15 share rose to 92.4% in value and stabilised around 86%-87% in volumes.

2018 textile & clothing extra-EU-28 exports by product family

Despite representing slightly more than 10% of total exports expressed in tonnes, the clothing products accounted for more than 52% of total values shipped worldwide thanks to the very high average price of their products. This growing “dependence” to clothing exports is a trend that was initiated just after the 2008-2009 financial crisis.

Finally, taken individually, the clothing sector recorded higher volumes and values variations in 2018 compared to the upper part of the value chain. Undeniably, the yearly changes between value and volume were again virtually identical for the textiles sector, indicating a slight squeeze on unit prices due to international competition. Looking at textile and clothing separately their results were as follows:

- Textiles (including the new technical textiles): €23.4bn, up +2.8% in euro (+4.5% in 2017) and +2.4% in tonnage.
- Clothing: €26.6bn, up +6.4% in value terms (+9.2% in 2017) and +4.8% in volume terms

In due consideration of the above and despite export dynamism the extra EU-28 trade balance deficit stood at -€64.8bn showing a stagnation (+0,1%) compared to 2017 thanks to the slight improvement in the textile deficit nearly compensating the clothing deterioration. This hides an improvement of the export/import coverage ratio² in value to 43.5% compared to 42.4% in 2017.

Textile Exports

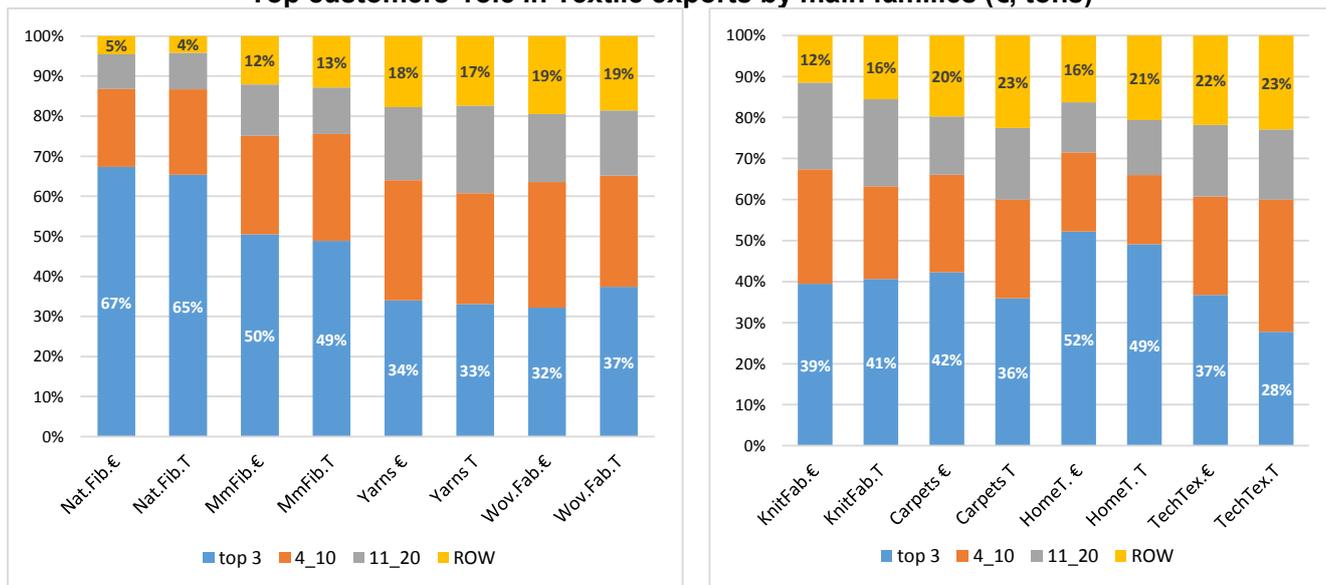

Preliminary considerations

Product family's exports do share different trading patterns influencing the overall result. During 2018 nearly two third of the textiles exported in value and more than half of the tonnages were the fact of the technical textiles and woven fabrics. Natural and man-made fibres represented slightly more than 25% of the volumes but only 8% of the values exported while house-related textiles accounted for a little more than 8% of the extra-EU exports both in euro and tonnage terms.

When looking at the segmentation among the top customers markets by main products, we note that there was opposing trends with product families with increasing market concentration while others were tending to be more diversified:

- In 2018, the share of EU exports shipped to the top customers' markets was the highest in euro terms for fibres (natural and man-made) and home textile as those were highly dependent from the top three markets (> 50% of the exports and goes exponentially until the top twenty). The concentration is also important for knitted fabrics as markets outside the top twenty ranking represent in value less than 15% of the total shipments outside the EU in euro.

Top customers' role in Textile exports by main families (€, tons)

² Export/import coverage ratio equals 100% if exports and imports value or volumes have the same value. If exports are higher than imports the coverage ratio will be above 100% as a sign of a positive trade balance.

- On the opposite carpets and technical textiles families can be considered more diversified as the share of clients in the "Rest of the World" (ROW) is above 20% of the total values and volumes. But we can also add yarns and woven fabrics for which the top three customers represent less than 35% of total exports. Nevertheless, it should be acknowledged that for the latter two families, the diversification is more visible among the 4th to 20th ranked clients as those did attract nearly half of the sales, a situation similar to knitted fabrics.

Please find hereafter details by family product.

Natural Fibres – Trade in natural fibres is particularly dependent on demand from transformers and the retail sector, however, global production is also a factor. Contrary to the previous year, the 2018 extra-EU exports of natural fibres, accounting for 4.4% of total EU textile exports, increased by a robust +8.8% in value (-2.7% in 2017) thanks to a double-digit hike in the unit price (+11.5% instead of -6.7% in 2017). This helped mitigating the -2.7% fall in the volumes shipped abroad (+4.3% in 2017).

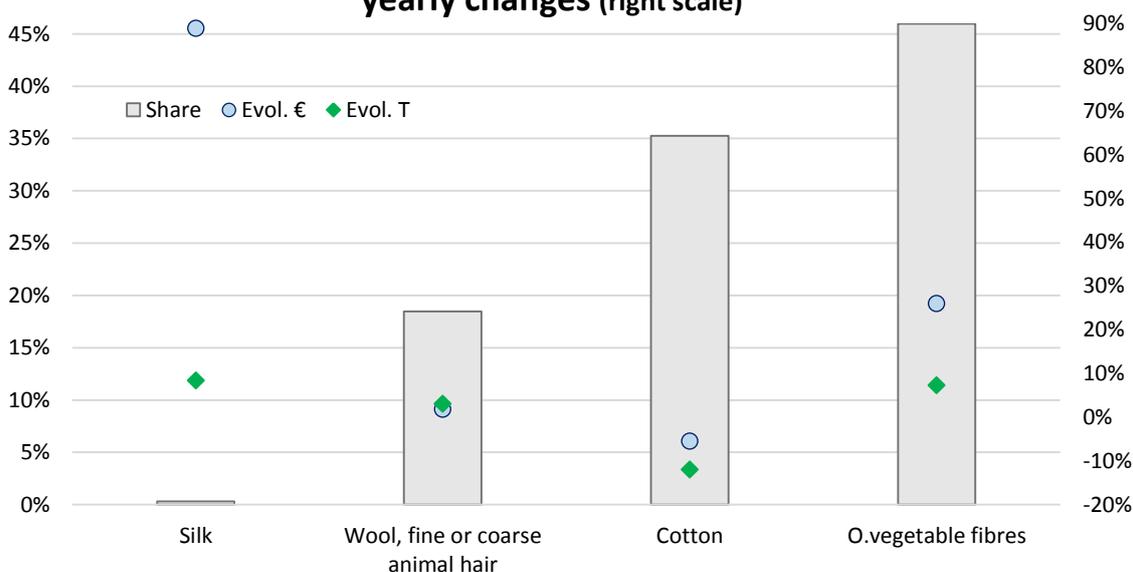

Considering the market shares in volumes of natural fibre exports outside the EU-28, cotton remained the most exported textile fibre with 44% (48% in 2017, 52% in 2016), ahead of flax with 37% (34% in 2017) and wool with nearly 17% (16% in 2017). If we refer to values, the first natural fibre shipped worldwide are still flax fibres (45%) followed by cotton (35%) and wool (18.5%).

The major globally-consumed natural fibre is cotton that is also produced in small quantities in Greece and Spain. These EU producers did face adverse market conditions: volumes plummeted by -12% for the second year in a row (-3.1% in 2017) while turnover declined also (-5.5%) after the stagnation noted in 2017. The only positive note being that average export prices rose by a robust +7.4%

After two years of negative developments in values, EU wool exporters managed to stop the erosion of their shipments at low levels in value terms. This was the result of a growth in volumes that did not help to compensate the slump noted in 2016 even though shipments grew for the second year consecutively. These evolutions translated into a small decrease of the average export price. Nearly 83% of the volumes of wool fibres exported were not carded nor combed but those absorbed slightly more than 56% of the sales worldwide in euro terms. Unfortunately, market conditions were not favourable to this type of fibres contrary to the remaining type of wool fibres that benefitted from an overall double-digit jump that was accompanied by a severe decline in average export prices.

Flax fibre exports remain a success story: volumes grew for the second year in a row after a very robust 2017 and, thanks to a renewed interest for this fibre that pushed export prices up again quite strongly - allowing to offset the significant drop noted in 2017 - EU exporters enjoyed a double digit hike of their export turnover in euro. China and India remained the two major buyers of flax in volume terms.

Country-wise 2018 was characterised by solid divergent trends among top twenty partners as in seven markets EU exporters enjoyed double or sometimes triple-digit jumps both in values and volumes while in nine other markets the slump was quite robust.

Nevertheless, the top ten ranking did not change but one. China, being the number one world producer, fibre consumer and exporter, consolidated its leading position absorbing 45% of the European-based fibres shipped worldwide in tons (38% in 2017) and 49% in euro (41% in 2017). The consolidation was the result of a double digit-growth both in values (+28.7%) and volumes (+15%).

Despite a collapse in sales to the Turkish market of the tune of -35% in value and -39% in tons, Turkey secured last year the second position among the privileged partners of EU originating natural fibres (share varying from 12% in euro to 14% in tons). Such strong yearly changes are usual with Turkey if we look back to 2016 and 2017 results. Cotton was once again the leading natural fibre purchased from the EU-28 with a 72% share in natural fibres in euro.

The surprise come for the third position. Though still a long way behind the two leading countries, India seized the third step of the podium at the expenses of Egypt thanks to exceptional EU exporters results: volumes grew by +22.7% and values by +32.5%. This was mirroring the exceptional performances of EU exports of flax fibres to this key market as they absorb nearly 68% of the export values to India. Thanks to these performances India, with 6% to 7% market share, pushed back Egypt to the fourth position as EU shipments to this Mediterranean country stagnated (+2.1% in euro, +0% in volume) despite relatively positive evolution in EU cotton and flax fibres exports.

Among the other markets, EU worldwide shipments plummeted both in values and volumes by a double digit in Indonesia (5th client), USA (8th), Vietnam (12th), Japan (13th), Switzerland (16th), Peru (17th) and Bosnia-Herzegovina (18th). On the opposite in new markets purchases soared sometimes with a double-digit rhythm like in Bangladesh (6th), Russia (19th) and Belarus (20th); or a triple-digit rate: Thailand (14th) and Algeria (15th).

Finally, Tunisia (10th purchaser) confirmed to be an attractive market, thanks to the high share of exports of flax (67% of fibres in euro) both in values (+11.9%) and volumes (+2.4%) compared to Morocco (11th) that appear to be a price-driven market as cotton fibres dominate (78% of the values): values -0.4% and volumes +8%.

Synthetic & Artificial Fibres – Considering the world slackening economic environment, the EU-28 production of man-made fibres in 2018 slowed down but remained positive to +1.2% (+3.6% in 2017 and -2.2% in 2016).

In these conditions, extra-EU exports of synthetic and artificial fibres, accounting for roughly 3.5% of total textiles exports, reflected the economic changes as they increased by +3.2% in value, a trend five times lower than the 2017 evolution (+17%), while volumes weakened by -3.7% (+7% in 2017), leaving the average unit price +7.2% higher than in 2017, but this did only partially rebalance the 2016 price crash.

Bearing in mind its dominant position, 76.5% of total man-made fibres EU shipments to the world in value, synthetic fibres did contribute to the sector performance: exports exhibited increases of +5.7% in euro terms even if far from the 2017 records; while volumes remained stable after a positive 2017. For the second year in a row, sales of artificial fibres improved in volumes though at a lower rhythm compared to slow 2017 progression, whereas in value terms exports slightly decreased, a somewhat good result not comparable to the fall noted the previous year.

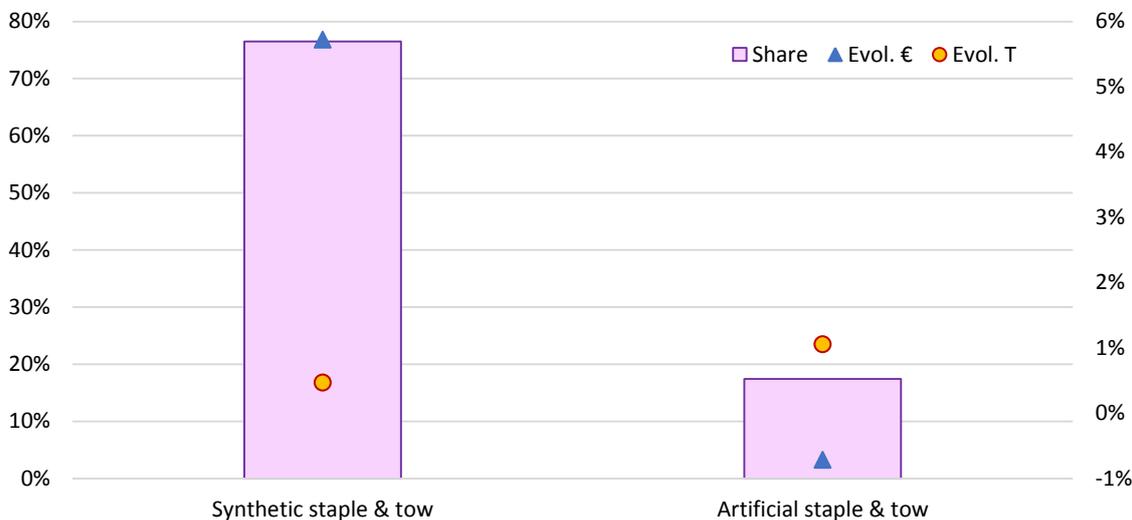

In this sector, the distribution among the potential buyers varied greatly depending on the type of synthetic or artificial fibres purchased. This said, on the basis of volume, and despite the economic difficulties, Turkey remained the main buyer of EU synthetic and artificial fibres with a share of nearly 25%. But this hides difficult market conditions since volumes and values tumbled by a double-digit rate (respectively -17% and -10.3%). Nevertheless, Turkish buyers stayed ahead of the American ones to whom EU exporters shipped +5.4% more goods in volume reaching a share of 15.6% in the total tonnage exported worldwide, but values grew by a slow +1.3%.

China completed the podium thanks to EU exceptional performances in this market: values jumped by more than +89% and volumes by +69% allowing this market exceeding Iran, the fourth customer.

Taking a look at the other strong performances in export sales, we should highlight the exceptional three-digit growth, in smaller in size but promising markets for EU companies, like Taiwan (+182% in value, +76% in volumes), South Korea (+112% in euro, +77% in tons) and Bangladesh (+111% in euro, +99% in tons). The same was true for Russia with +21% (val.), +88% (vol.), Pakistan with +59% in euro and +22% in tonnage and Canada (+20% in value, +15% in volumes). On the opposite shipments to Morocco, Brazil, Serbia and Peru decreased both in value and volumes by a double-digit rate.

Thread and Yarn – After two years of positive evolution, EU-28 spinning production tumbled by -7.3% (+2.0% in 2017) reaching levels below the 2015 benchmark!

Notwithstanding this, extra-EU-28 exporters managed, after two difficult years recording important decreases, to gain markets worldwide progressing by +15.6% in euro (-10.4% in 2017) and by +8.2% in volume terms (-8.7% in 2017). Clearly export activity of this product family (accounting for 7.5% to 8% of textiles exports) helped EU-28 companies to compensate, thanks also to an average price unit growth of +6.8%, the slackening of the EU market materialised by the production slump.

Man-made filament yarn made up the largest share of exports (61% of the values) handled a positive market evolution due to global sales growth by a double-digit rate offsetting the 2017 slump. On the contrary, synthetic and artificial staple fibres EU exporters faced a difficult year because volumes continued to decline with a strong pace as in 2017, while values deteriorate. When looking at natural fibres absorbing 28% of the EU thread and yarn world export in Euro and 15.5% in tonnage, their performances depend vastly from the value of the raw materials used to produce such products. In 2018 woollen yarns, the second in importance in value terms, grew in euro terms but stagnated in tonnage; cotton yarns exporters stabilised their sales abroad both in value and volumes; the “other vegetable” yarns shipments saw a decline in volumes while values progressed slowly. Finally, silk yarns, representing very small volumes, collapsed in tonnage as values declined gradually.

Customer-wise, the USA remained the main buyer of European thread and yarn, however, contrary to 2016 and 2017, EU exporters increased strongly their sales: +21.4% in value (-20.2% in 2017, -12.8% in 2016) and +27.4% in volumes (-13% both in 2016 and 2017). These significant increases do hide a price reduction in euro terms by -3.9%, reflecting the shaky Euro-US dollar exchange rate trends.

After a rather bleak 2016, Turkish buyers confirmed their good 2017 performances consolidating their second ranking, as acquisitions of thread and yarn in 2018 grew by +27.4% in value (+83.7% in 2017) and +4.9% volumes (+10.9% in 2017) translating into a strong average price increase (+17.6%) in euro terms.

China, consolidated its third position, as local buyers increased their purchases from EU by +27.4% in value and +14.5% in volumes confirming the 2017 trends (respectively +31.6% and +17.9%). Hong-Kong and Switzerland complete the top 5 ranking (nearly 45% of the values) with above-the-average performances for the latter market while EU exporters recorded bleak results in the Asian market.

Finally, EU exports of yarns and threads faced among the remaining top twenty markets ranking quite unexpected trends if we exclude double-digit hikes in value for EU shipments to South Korea (+27.2%), Ukraine (+11.2%), Egypt (+25.5%) and Sri Lanka (+15.8%); indeed, EU sales decreased in value in five markets and in volumes in nine destinations.

Woven Fabrics – After contracting for two years in a row (2015 and 2016), EU-28 weaving production expanded again in 2018 by +2.0% (+1.6% in 2017) reaching levels higher than the ones of 2014 but not yet beating the 2011 record. This positive trend was accompanied by a growth of the extra-EU-28 exports both in value (+3.6%) reaching €6.4bn and in tonnage (+3.3%); such evolutions were similar to the 2017 ones: +3.2% and +4.9%. Moreover, average unit prices stagnated (+0.2%) for this sector of activity that accounts for 23% of all EU-28 textile exports.

The above echoes the sustained importance of this sector in serving the neighbouring partners countries with quality fabrics for making-up even though the fluctuating euro exchange rate did impact such results. Export performances of woven fabrics diverged according to fashion and fibres trends imposed by the market:

- Silk, wool and other vegetable fibres woven fabrics, that account for 22.6% in euro and 9% of the volumes of woven fabrics exported outside of the EU, were confronted with slightly opposing changes:
 - Other vegetable fibres benefitted from a double-digit growth both in values and volumes thanks to the performances of the flax fabrics despite a decreasing average unit price;
 - A similar trend was observed for silk fabrics whose quantities jumped strongly accompanied by a slump in their export prices translating into a minimal gain in value terms;

- On the opposite, wool fabric exporters managed to reap positive evolutions both in euro and volumes thanks to the dynamism of the carded wool fabrics exports benefitting from a double-digit upward trend compared to the worsted fabrics single-digit results despite a jump of their average export prices.
- For cotton fabrics exports accounting for 26% of the woven fabrics' global shipments, 2018 was not an exceptional year as volumes decreased while values stagnated. This hides again contrasting evolutions because unbleached and denim fabrics saw their exports falling by a double-digit rate both in volumes and in euro terms. The results of the dyed fabrics were not satisfactory neither, in particular in volumes. Therefore, the only sub-sector maintaining its position was the printed fabrics ones thanks to a meagre, but above the average, increase in their shipments.

- Exports of synthetic and artificial filament fabrics, representing slightly more than 19% of the fabrics' exports in euro and 28.5% of the volumes, progressed in particular in tonnages while the fall in the average price translated into a limited growth in values. This was the consequence of less dynamic results in the synthetic filament fabrics business that accounted for 90% of the values and 80% of the tonnes sold outside the EU.

- Among the man-made staple fibres fabrics, accounting for nearly 18% (values) and 23% (volumes) of the EU woven fabrics exports, the artificial and "other synthetics" fabrics - representing 53% in euro of the exports of this sub-group - recorded the best performances both in value and in volumes. Despite that, total man-made staple fibres fabrics exports did increase by a small +3.3% in euro and by +3.4% in tonnage confirming the difficult market conditions faced because average export prices did stagnate.
- Finally, special woven fabrics (14.5% in value and 13% in volumes of fabrics exported) did also record conflicting trends, even though average export unit price did fall (from -1.7% to -10.4%) among all specialities, but one:

- Narrow fabrics dominate with more than 33% of the total extra-EU 28 special fabrics exports (48% of the volumes) and benefited from a sustained growth compared to other fabrics;
- Pile fabrics (20% of the special fabrics shipments) benefited from a double-digit evolution both in volumes and values;
- While tapestries and quilted products exports collapsed, the embroidery fabrics deliveries stagnated in values but progressed strongly in volumes contrary to labels and badges whose average export prices jumped resulting from a fall of the volumes shipped.

EU quality woven fabrics are predominantly shipped to nearby countries for transformation as these partners represent half of the top twenty markets absorbing 61% of the tonnages and 49% of the values resulting from the extra-EU shipments. These ten markets³ recorded growths below EU averages in euro terms (+2.4%) even though EU weavers did deliver +4.4% more fabrics in volume, confirming that to remain competitive EU companies were obliged to cut their average prices by -1.9% to maintain their market positions.

Morocco consolidated its number one position at the expenses of average prices that plummeted (-6.5%) as volumes jumped by +7.7% at the expenses of values (+0.9%). Tunisia also reinforced its second ranking but here EU exporters managed to increase values (+3.7%) and average prices (+2.2%) reflecting a slower pace of growth in volumes (+1.5%). USA complete the podium even though exchange rates and market conditions were not attractive for this market where costlier EU fabrics are traditionally shipped: volumes stagnated (-0.4%) and prices declined by -2.1% resulting in a lower turnover (-2.6%). Please note that performances with Mexico (18th client) were also negative in values (-6.8%) and volumes (-8.8) indicating that EU exporters were facing difficult times in NAFTA markets.

Though the top three customers absorbed 32% of the exports in euro and 37% of the tonnages, EU exporters recorded very good results in particular in volume with: Turkey (+3.4% in euro, +6.7% in volume), as this fourth customer in value terms - but the third in tonnage - was on the verge to overtake the third position held by the USA; and China (+6.8% in value, +9.9% in tonnage), the fifth client. The latter market performances were also confirmed by the good results achieved with Hong-Kong (+5.2% in euro, +4.2% in tons) making the Greater China the virtual third customer in euro terms (10%) even though it would have absorbed only 4.8% of the volumes.

European fabric exporters achieved double-digit jumps in smaller size markets like Moldova, Madagascar (from +15% to +37% both in volumes and values) but also in Mali, Bosnia-Herzegovina and Vietnam (from +10.5% to +12.1% in values). This was not the case with the Russian market (11th client) facing a new slump (-7.7% in euro, -9.8% in volume) linked among others to the rouble weakness, while Switzerland (6th customer) recorded a slight decrease in volumes (-1.4%) and a stagnation of the values (+0.7%).

Knitted Fabrics – After two years of strong increase of the EU knitted fabrics production (+ 5% in 2016 and +5.2% in 2017), the 2018 output declined by -3.9%. This break in the growth was also felt by the extra-EU exports in particular in value terms (-3.8%) while volumes shipped stagnated (+0%). Moreover, average unit prices declined by a robust -3.9% for this sector of activity that accounts for 5.6% of all EU-28 exports. Contrary to 2017, the knitted products listed under this category faced divergent trends both in values and volumes as showed in the graph below. Indeed, world sales of curtains and other lace knitted on warp or Raschel machines (21% of exports in this sector) dropped heavily in particular in value terms (-15%) while velvet type fabrics were the only increasing in value but not in volumes. Exports of both narrow and wide stretch knit fabrics, accounting for 32% of knitted fabric exports, saw their overall shipments reduced in value and tonnage. But this hides disparate trends as narrow stretch knit products exports shrank by double digit rate during 2018 while the other stretch fabrics saw their deliveries stagnate.

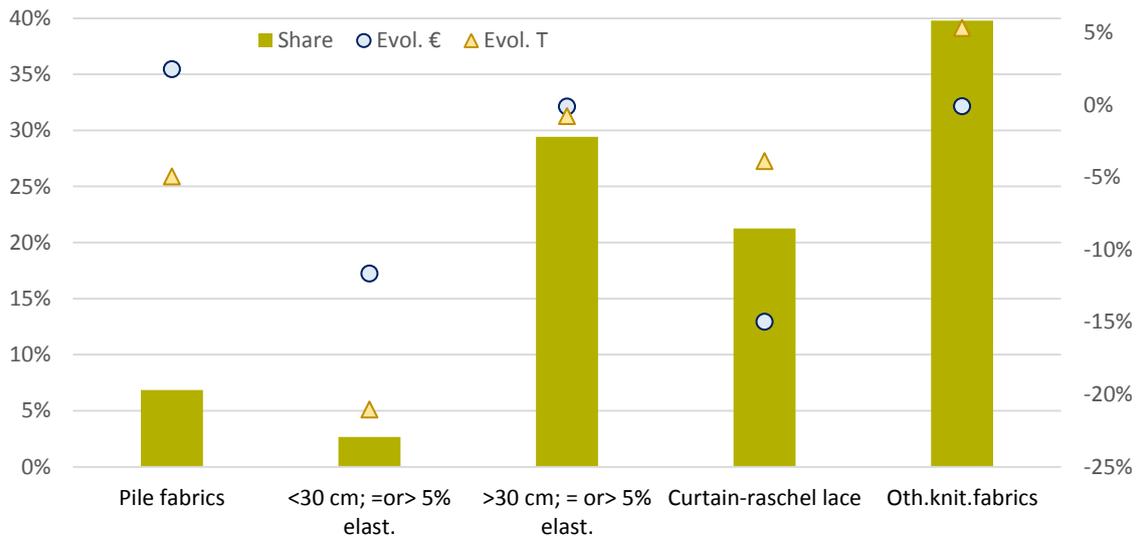

With no surprise knitted fabrics are predominantly shipped to nearby neighbouring countries for further processing. Indeed, more than 56% of the values and 58% of tonnages sold by EU knitting exporting firms was shipped in 2018 to Euromed area markets present in the top twenty customers list, together with Belarus, Moldova and Ukraine.

Morocco and Tunisia ranked 1st and 2nd and purchased for more than 31% of the EU fabrics in value. Even though volumes sold increased substantially in both market (respectively + 6.2% and +4.4%) EU exporters had to sell their products at prices that were between -6.8 and -5.5% below 2017 levels. This was not exactly the case for the USA, the third customer, as even if prices decreased slowly, they allowed nevertheless for values and volumes to grow respectively by + 3.6% and +4.3%.

3 In decreasing order of importance: Morocco, Tunisia, Turkey, Switzerland, Ukraine, Macedonia, Albania, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Moldova and Serbia

The most outstanding decreases in the value of exports were in Moldova, Hong Kong, Sri Lanka, South Korea, Belarus, Turkey, Switzerland and Vietnam.

Technical Textiles – 2018 production levels (excluding nonwovens) were slightly higher compared to 2013, hiding a yearly fall of -7.5% of the output after two years of very strong evolution (+6.0% in 2017 and +11.2% in 2016). Once more, extra-EU-28 exports of technical textiles increased year-on-year offsetting the above-negative production trends. This growth translated into nearly €11bn of exports, adding +3.4% in value (+8.5% in 2017, +2.4% in 2016, +5.3% in 2015) but a meagre +0.4% in volume terms in 2018 mirroring the slackening of the industrial demand for such type of products (compared to the +7.7% in 2017). Nearly all the main technical textile product categories were in demand to a greater or lesser extent depending on their size allowing this pillar of EU-28 textile exports reaching a share of 39.4% last year (39.3% in 2017, 38.3% in 2016, 36.9% in 2014).

With the exception of a few minor product sub-categories whose export values were slightly up, all others recorded much less exceptional results compared to 2017.

- Nonwovens accounted for nearly 17% share of extra-EU-28 exports of technical textiles but such share did decline slightly while the EU production stagnated (+0.5%) after a deceiving 2017 (+1%). EU output was not influenced by the low increase in the volumes exported that translated into a slight rise in the values reflecting into declining average unit prices.

- Felts, wadding, special yarns, twine, nets, etc.: these accounted for a 9.7% share of extra-EU-28 exports of technical textiles (10.1% in 2017) and their exports stabilised at low levels in value but tumbled in volume.
- Coated textile fabrics and other technical textiles: these made up 24% of extra-EU-28 exports in this category and 2018 exports expanded at lower rhythms compared to the good 2017 performances. Once more the purchases of coated and impregnated fabrics played a decisive role in the trends as they made up nearly 50% of this category in value.
- Other made up technical textile articles, including the new high added value products represent collectively the largest and growing share of the technical textiles (more than 49%) but this hides divergent trends:
 - Medical applications dominate with more than 21% of the total extra-EU 28 technical textiles exports and were the most dynamic products both in values and volumes;
 - Glass fibres fabrics and articles thereof faced difficult market conditions as EU operators recorded a stabilization of the volumes sold accompanied by a slight upward trend in values. Those articles represented a good 8.7% of total technical textiles shipments to the world;
 - Among the remaining more classical applications

(8.8% share) the sales of sacks and bags tumbled heavily in values but not in volumes contrary to the positive results reached by the other products included here (i.e. tarpaulins, sunblind's, floor cloth, etc.);

- Finally, the pace of the EU shipments to world markets for the remaining high-value technical textiles (share of 10.4%) included in other HS chapters were not encouraging in particular in volumes.

The USA maintained their leading position (21% of purchases in this sector) by increasing the gap with the other competitors. As in the previous years, the United States customers continued to value the quality of various European technical textiles, buying +6.6% more in euro (+10% and +8.8% in 2017 and 2016 but not in volumes (+1.4% instead of +7.1% in 2017). As previously the American buyers concentrated their purchases in made-up technical textiles, a rise of +6.5% (val.) instead of +18.2% the previous year. Most purchases amongst these products were for medical textiles (62%), up by nearly +18% in euro (+29% in 2017).

China maintained its second position despite a fall of EU shipments in volumes and values (-8.5% and -2% respectively). Despite this, Swiss customers (3rd) were not in the position to overtake the Empire of the Middle competitor as values stagnated (+0.4%) and volumes weakened. Other markets did also record declining trends both in volume and values among the top twenty customers like Turkey, South Africa and Saudi Arabia.

This was not the case for the EU results in markets like Morocco, Serbia and Singapore where values grew by a double-digit rate outpacing more mature markets like - in descending order of importance: Norway, Japan, Australia, Canada and South Korea where EU shipments in euro varied from -2.9% to +9.1%.

Rugs & Carpets – This sector representing 4,3% of extra-EU textile exports faced overall difficult market conditions compared to previous years. Actually, the 2018 exports grew by a meagre +1% in euro terms (+5.9% in 2017) while volumes stagnated after two strong years (-0.3% instead of +9.2% in 2017 and +10.7% in 2016). These changes helped to stabilise the average export unit price (+1.3%) redressing slightly the negative 2017 results (-3%).

This export performance was exclusively down to broad knit tufted carpets (still representing 44% of exports in this sector): 2018 shipments recorded the third year in a row of progression thanks to a double-digit jump. Exports of woven and knotted pile mats evolved differently: [a] knotted carpets (the smallest grouping) grew significantly in particular in volume terms; [b] woven carpets shipments, representing more than 30% of carpet and rugs EU export, declined both in value and volumes; [c]whilst exports of needled carpets recorded a positive result though below the 2017 results.

The EU export to the four main buyers (USA, Switzerland, Russia and Norway) were quite deceiving explaining the overall poor results of this grouping. Indeed, EU sales to those markets stagnated (-0.3% in euro and -0.6% in tons) with Switzerland (ranking 2nd) recording the worst results of these markets (-3.1% in value, -2.1% in volume) after a 2017 bleak year. On the other hand, the USA, Norway and Russia were not in the position to repeat the 2017 excellent results.

Nevertheless, EU exporters managed to expand sales, sometimes with double-digit increases, in smaller in size but promising markets for EU companies, like Brazil, India, Mexico, Singapore, Chile, Israel or Australia. On the opposite, the United Arab Emirates purchases tumbled (-23.4% in euro) after few years of increase while its neighbouring Saudi Arabia bought +3.9% more in euro (-9.9% in volume terms). A similar uncertain trend was witnessed by Morocco (+2.1% in value and -4% in tons), China (+6.7% and -9.6% individually) and Ukraine (respectively -8.8% and +0.5%). Finally, EU sales to Turkey, Canada stagnated in value and did fall in volume.

Price-wise, trends remain positive for most of the customers even though in certain cases the market penetration hike was the result of a strong average unit price cut like for Brazil (-10%) or Ukraine (-9.3%).

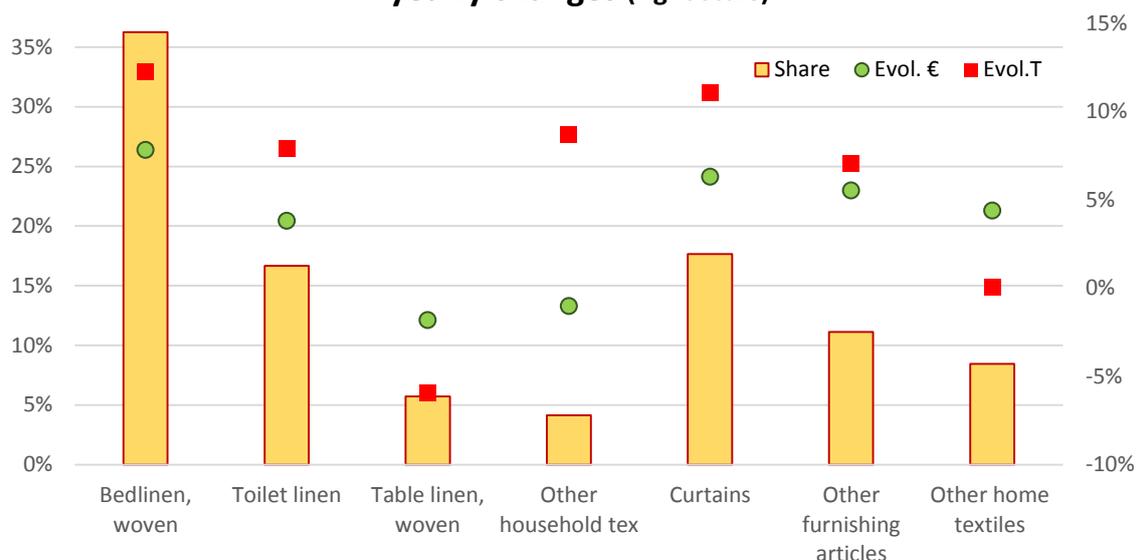

Home Textiles – After two years of decline (-4.6% in 2016 and -1.8% in 2017) the EU home textiles production rebounded strongly (+4.8%) in 2018 fuelling the extra-EU-28 exports. Indeed, deliveries to the world in euro grew by +5.3% (+2.9% in 2017) but as volumes soared by +8.4% (+1.9% in 2017), the average unit price fall by -2.8%. This confirms that such products do face an extremely severe competition pressure and may be explains that home textiles are just one of the smallest parts of the total textile exported products (around 4%).

With no surprise household linens were, globally, the main component accounting for over 60% of the total. Extra-EU-28 exports of home related products increased by +7.8% in value, and by +12.3% in volume terms thanks to the excellent results reached by EU's bed and toilet linen. This positive trend was confirmed also for curtains and other furnishing articles as their global shipments progressed with a robust rhythm.

Slightly more than half of home textiles exports were absorbed by the three first EU customers (Switzerland, the USA and Norway) but performances were negative for the latter two, contrary to the Swiss one where EU shipments grew by +8% in values and +19% in volumes. However, EU exports grew by a double-digit rate in euro for: China, Canada, Dominican Rep., Hong Kong, South Korea, Mexico, Morocco, Tunisia and the United Arab Emirates. On the other hand, Turkey, Saudi Arabia, Australia and Russia purchased less EU originating home textiles (from -1% to -8% in value and from -1% to -30% in volumes).

Average unit prices increased only for shipments intended for Japan, Mexico, Turkey, Hong Kong and Israel (from +9% to +34%) while prices declined for most of the other top 20 customers.

Exports of clothing products

Preliminary considerations

Contrary to textile trade and production where product groups do correspond, this is not the case for garment production. Indeed, clothing production data do cover different realities compared to trade, hence herewith a short description of the 2018 garments production trends before looking at trade evolutions.

* * *

EU-28 apparel producers continued to face negative production trends (-2.4%) in 2018 as it was the case in 2017 (-2.0%). Such data cover production of textile, leather and fur garments. Looking at details, where available, we observe that for the second consecutive year, underwear producers registered the biggest output drop (-7.3%) putting the overall 2018 level -11% below the 2015 reference year. On the same manner, producers of not knitted outerwear products saw their production fall strongly (-5.8%).

Such very negative trends were partially compensated by the behaviour of the EU knitwear producers. Undeniably, 2018 was an overall positive year (+10.2%) after the 2017 slump (-13.7%). This result was driven by the excellent results of the hosiery producers (+24.4%) that reached a new record level in 2018, well above 2015 benchmark, while other knitwear manufacturers managed to stabilize the production levels (-0.5%) but at a very low level (26% below 2015 levels!).

With the above in mind export performances were effectively the result of a combination of local production and of re-export of sub-contracted production mostly, but not only, originating in the EU neighbouring partners.

During 2018, the share of EU exports shipped to the top 10 customers markets was the highest in euro terms for men and womenswear families with over 73% of the sales. This was not the case for workwear as top 10 markets did absorb "only" 65% of the exports.

When looking at volumes, buyers from the "rest of the world" (ROW) were the main receivers of the EU exports in particular for workwear and the other knitted garments and accessories families.

Please find hereafter more details by family product.

Top customers' role in clothing exports by main families (€, tons)

Workwear – After a very positive 2017-year, extra-EU-28 exports slowed down mainly in value terms: +2.4% (+10% in 2017) a trend that hides opposing evolutions: exporting average unit prices in euro faced a double-digit fall (-11.8%) that translated into a +16% explosion of the volumes shipped. Overall, workwear remains a very minimal part of total EU-28 clothing exports (1%).

As usual, when looking at single products, yearly evolutions varied quite strongly depending on the type of article and destination (men's or women's) and no correlation can be identified looking at the different trends. The top-three buying countries, which bought a growing share (49.7%) of workwear in 2018 mirroring the trends observed during the two previous years (48.4% in 2017 and 46% in 2016), were:

- Switzerland, by far the main customer buying 27.6% of EU workwear exports, and progressed quite strongly in volumes (+8.7%) thanks to a declining average price (-3.8%) that limited the growth in euro (+4.6%).
- European exporters saw their sales to Norway, their second client, increasing by a solid +11.6% thanks to a sturdy price increase compensating the downward changes in volumes (-3.7%).
- Despite negative market conditions with values and volumes declines (respectively -3.5% and -2.7%) the US market consolidated its third rank.

Among the other top customers, there were double digit falls in values and volumes for Australia, Hong Kong, China and Turkey while EU products improved strongly their deliveries to Korea, the United Arab Emirates, Russia or in smaller size markets like Serbia, Algeria or Ukraine.

Menswear – Extra-EU-28 exports of menswear still accounted for 23% of total clothing sector exports and progressed at a lower path compared to other groupings. Indeed, even though export performances were among the top four textile and clothing groupings, EU menswear companies shipped in 2018 for €6.1bn of garments (+6.1%) while volumes grew by +3.6%. Though positive, such rhythms were lower compared to 2017: +9.3% and +10.1% respectively. This helped EU companies to record an increase in their average export unit price (+2.4%).

The three major menswear products for export representing 79% of the category deliveries were in descending order: trousers (34%), coats (21%) - thanks to huge increases during the last two years - and shirts (17%). Purchases of all three exhibited considerable increases mainly in value, with coats reporting a solid +19.7%.

Compared to 2017, no real changes in the evolution of the other main product families was noted with jackets and blazers maintaining a fairly stable trend though below average (+1.9%) whilst exports of suits weakened for the second year in a row. This was also the case for ensembles, underwear, sport-athletic garments but also for shirts (in volumes).

Despite such “relative” slowing down in the shipment’s rhythm, the top-three clients bought for 41,7% of the men’s garments in euro, a share slightly increasing but hiding important evolutions. Indeed, while Russian market (3rd) grew strongly in volumes (+9.2%), combined with a robust decrease of the average price unit (-4%), the US market (2nd) stabilised in prices (+0.7%) with volumes increasing above the average and contrary to the Swiss buyers that absorbed higher volumes (+3%) compared to 2017 but at a much higher price (+5.1%).

This being said, though exceptional, considering the market(s) situation and also what happened in 2017, the EU performances in Switzerland remain questionable as the main products purchases progressed again at a double-digit rhythm like trousers (+19.8%), coats (+16.1%) and shirts (+10%). As already anticipated last year these striking results achieved during the 2017-2018 period, also visible for the other main clothing families, could be attributable to several trends that are difficult to disentangle: the upsurge was in part driven by retail sector demand - especially by the development of the e-commerce and also by the role this country plays as exporting hub to the world for a significant proportion of such EU originating products.

Last year, EU products improved also strongly their deliveries to China, Korea, Australia and Serbia with double-digit performances and positive changes in unit price except for Australia (-19%!). Whereas Canadian buyers continue to be attracted by EU products allowing EU exporters to increase their sales quicker despite a small reduction in average price, EU shipments in value and volumes did decrease quite strongly to Turkey. The latter is the sole main customer for which EU companies lose shares. Finally, menswear’ sales to Middle Eastern countries continue to fell sharply like in 2017 and especially to Saudi Arabia, Lebanon and United Arab Emirates. Japan growth remained constant and slightly above the average allowing EU exporters achieving stronger results than with other key markets like the USA or Russia, at least in value.

Womenswear – Extra-EU-28 exports of women’s apparel also benefited from global demand and the convenience of online shopping. Mirroring the situation in menswear, extra-EU-28 sales of womenswear increased in value terms by +6.9% to €10.7bn (+9.6% in 2017). As volumes shipped increased by a robust +11.6% in one year (+9.1% In 2017), the average unit price tumbled by -4,2%. This went against the previous year slow improvement (+0.4%) while the prices in euro decreased quite strongly in all product families during 2018, sometimes by a double-digit rate, except for tracksuits (+22%) and coats (+2.8%).

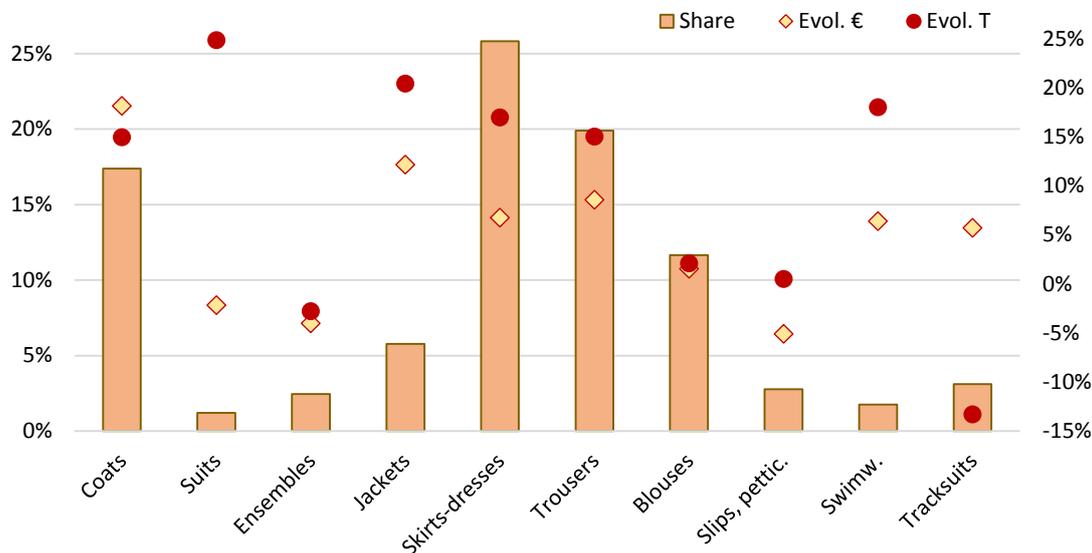

Despite those trends this sector still represented 40% of the value of total clothing exports outside the EU-28 (35% in volume).

The three major womenswear products sold representing 63% of the category exports were in descending order: skirts and dresses (26%), trousers (20%) and coats (17%). Purchases of all three displayed considerable increases mainly in volumes. Yearly changes were positive for the majority of the products except for suits, ensembles and woven underwear where negative trends in values (from -2% to -5%) were detected.

For the same reasons presented for menswear, EU shipments of womenswear continued to progress in Switzerland (leading market) though at a much slower pace (+11,6% in euro and + 7.6% in volume) compared to the 2017 exceptional results (respectively +52.4% and +12.2%). The same holds true for Norway (7th market) were sales increased by +5.6% in value terms and by +7.4% in volumes, a rhythm much lower compared to 2017 (+29.3% in euro and +14.6% in volumes). For these two markets the analysis of the single products growths shows that their rhythms were below the exceptional 2017 results, but were above EU export averages.

Although maintaining its ranking as second export market, the USA are losing ground compared to Switzerland because of a growth below the sector average (+5.1%) and it is also the case for Russia (3rd buyer) were EU shipments climbed modestly (+5.6%) compared to other markets. In both cases, volumes jumped by a double-digit rise helped by a fall in the average unit prices. This was also valid for Ukraine (14th market) while EU shipments to Turkey moved back both in volumes and values.

If we exclude Taiwan deceiving results (-7.8%) and the stagnant trend of Hong Kong (+1.4%), EU sales to the major Asian customers increased sometimes quite vigorously: China (+29.5%), South Korea (+8.5%), Japan (+7%). Overall sales to the Middle East countries declined but this hides divergent trends with a fall in Saudi Arabia or Kuwait and a stagnation in Lebanon and the United Arab Emirates.

If we ignore Switzerland, Hong Kong and Singapore positive changes, all the other top markets recorded either a stagnation of their EU export price in women's wear products (China or Turkey) or a decline sometimes reaching double-digit cuts like for - in decreasing order: Saudi Arabia, Ukraine, Israel, Taiwan, or Australia (from -10% to -67%).

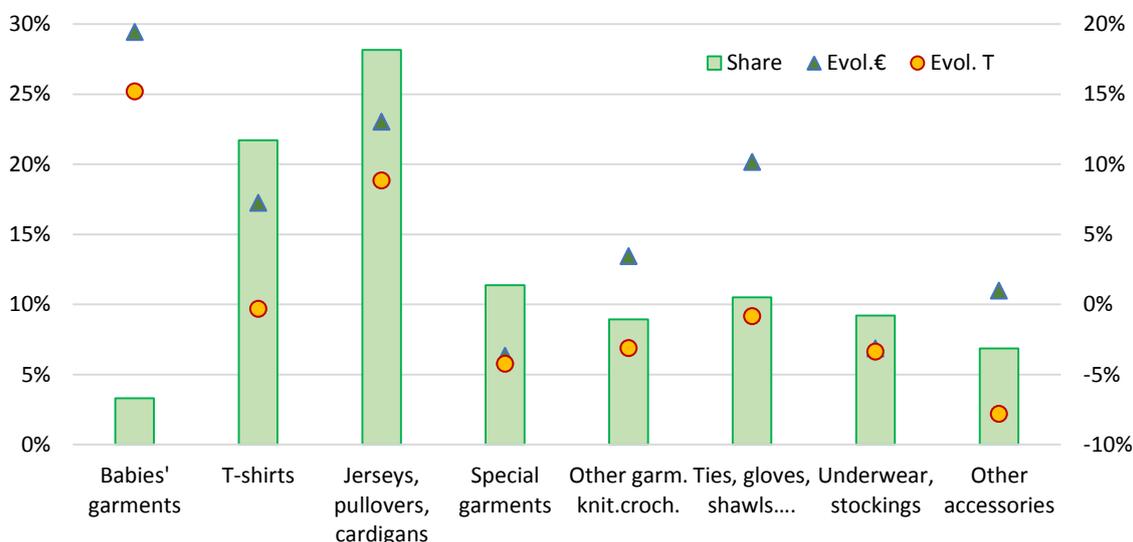

Other articles of clothing and accessories – This category covers a whole list of knitwear and clothing accessories in menswear and womenswear. Again, exports for this sector accounted for 37% of total extra-EU-28 clothing exports in euro reaching €9.8bn or 42% of the volumes shipped. They grew by +6.1% in value (+8.9% in 2017) and by a scarce +0.4% in volume terms (+6.0% in 2017) translating into a good average unit export price hike (+5.7%).

The three major products representing 61% of the category exports were in descending order: jersey and pullovers (28%), t-shirts (22%) and special garments (11%). While the latter together with brassieres faced a deceiving year as volumes and values decreased substantially, only jersey's managed to record a very positive year for all the variables contrary to t-shirts that garner a substantial export unit price jump resulting from a stagnation of the volumes shipped.

Apart from the very good results reached by EU exports of jersey and pullovers, babies' garments were the best performers both in value and volumes. All the other main product families faced a decrease of their exports mostly in volume terms like for shawls, scarves, brassieres and other accessories.

Echoing the situation of both menswear and womenswear, sales to Switzerland absorbed 17% of the purchases and progressed quite strongly in euro (+11.7%) considering the economic situation. Such trend helped increasing the gap with its immediate competitors like: the USA (+4.2%, 2nd market), Russia (+4.6%, 4th), Japan (+4.6%, 6th) or Norway (+3.1%, 7th). Although Hong Kong maintained its ranking (3rd) thanks to good results in value terms (+6.7%), a performance below the double-digit increases in euro with China, South Korea and Singapore; such trend did mirror the strong upward trend of the average unit price in these markets.

On the contrary the Euromed area customers, with the exception of Serbia, lost importance as sales to Turkey, Morocco shrank by a double-digit number in values and/or volumes while they stagnated in euro terms with Israel and Tunisia. The situation is comparable for other Middle East partners (Saudi Arabia, United Arab Emirates) contrary to the growing role of Canada or Ukraine that are markets with whom a constant upward trend for such EU products is recorded.

Average unit price changes remained positive for the majority of the top twenty customers of such garments even if average prices in euro shrank quite dramatically for exports to Australia, Ukraine, United Arab Emirates, Morocco or Tunisia (from -35% to -5%).

Trends in Textile & Clothing Imports in 2018

The 2018 global economic situation was fuelled by the restored confidence in the future, injected the year before, to both sector companies and consumers. This new international order supported EU-28 trade as described in previous bulletins⁴. Nevertheless, the weakness of the EU retail textile and clothing market (-0.4%) did impact the average unit price of clothing imports (-0.9%) but it did not stop the progression of world supply of garments in value terms: +2.3%. This confirmed that the global conditions for textiles & clothing during 2018 was similar to the previous year but with improved values trend, i.e.

- Extra-EU-28 imports of textiles & clothing (value): +2.1% (2017: +1.9%)
- Extra-EU-28 imports of textiles & clothing (volume): +2.6% (2017: +2.6%)

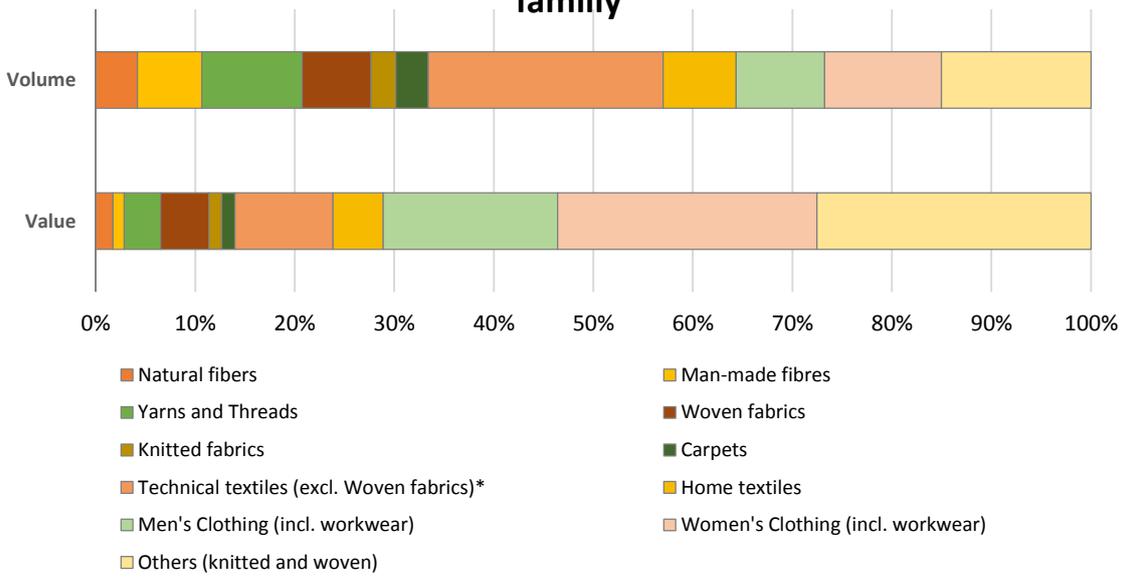

Despite representing nearly 27% of total imports expressed in euro, textiles products accounted for more than 60% of total volumes bought from the world suppliers, the predominance of clothing imports is set to remain as the EU industrial structure is evolving more and more towards the production of high-value added products accompanied by services. Looking at textile and clothing sectors separately, their results were as follows:

- Textiles (including the new technical textiles): €34.6bn, up +1.8% in euro (+3.5% in 2017) and +4% in tonnage (+4.1% in 2017).
- Clothing: €84.3bn, up +2.3% in value terms (+1.0% in 2017) and +2.6% in volume terms (+1.9% in 2017).

The geographical breakdown among the main EU-28 regions showed that Eastern European importers were again much more dynamic all along 2018. Indeed, world textile and clothing shipments to the East part of the EU grew quite strongly and were, in 2018, +35% higher since 2015. Despite such vitality, this did not help to rebalance the dominant role of the Western part of the EU that continues to account for the largest part of total extra-EU-28 imports and of the trade deficit in value terms (92%).

2018 textile & clothing extra-EU-28 imports by product family

Nevertheless, last year the Eastern EU member states did contribute to nearly 19% to the EU-28 trade deficit in textiles and clothing which represents a substantial jump from 2017 share (12%). This confirms that, despite being a small but increasing contributor to the export and imports trends separately, the Eastern part of the EU is a growing contributor to the trade deficit, a trend started in 2015 (+47% increase in the deficit in value for EU Eastern members).

Textile imports

Preliminary considerations

Product family's imports do share different trading patterns influencing the overall result for the textile part of the industry. Indeed, while the house-related textiles accounted for 22% of extra-EU imports in euro and 16.5% in tonnage terms, world suppliers of natural and man-made fibres did represent slightly more than 16.6% of the total volumes but only 10% of the EU imports in value. Consequently, approximately 51% of the textiles imported from the world in value and more than 47% of the tonnages were the fact of the technical textiles and woven fabrics.

Top suppliers' role in Textile imports by main families (€, tons)

When looking at the segmentation among the top suppliers by main products, we can spot again diverging trends with product families facing increasing market concentration while others were slightly more diversified since suppliers outside the top twenty ranking did represent in value less than 7% of the world shipments to the EU in value, a share much lower than for exports.

Among these groupings, knitted fabrics is by far the family with the highest concentration together with carpets as the top-three sellers absorbed more than three quarters of the total world deliveries. Compared to exports, this was also the case for most of the other product families.

- In 2018, the share of EU imports from the top suppliers' markets was the highest in euro terms for fabrics (knitted and woven), home textiles and carpets as those were highly dependent from their top-three suppliers (> 70% of the imports and goes exponentially until the twentieth trading country).

- On the opposite natural fibres, yarns and threads as well as technical textile families can be considered diversified to some extent because the share of the top three suppliers equals or is below 60% while the "Rest of the World" suppliers play a bigger role in both the total values and volumes (around 6%-7%). A few differences do exist nevertheless in particular for natural fibres where the top-twenty suppliers do cover "only" 83% of the volumes supplied and 93% in euro terms. Technical textiles sellers were also more evenly distributed, in particular in tonnage terms.

Natural Fibres – The 2018 extra-EU imports of natural fibres, accounting for little more than 6% of total EU textiles imports, recorded for the second consecutive year a strong upward trend in natural fibre prices (+12,9%), while EU-28 purchasing decreased by -2.5% in volumes (+0.9% in 2017) reflecting the downward trends in EU textile production. However, in value terms, this resulted in an additional extra cost of +10,1% after the solid +8.7% in 2017!

- Considering the market shares of EU-28 natural fibre imports from the rest of the world (volume), cotton remained the most imported textile fibre with 43% (42% in 2017), ahead of wool with more than 28% (27% in 2017) and other vegetable fibres including flax fibres with nearly 28% (30% in 2017). If we refer to values, the first natural fibre bought worldwide remain wool fibres (nearly 70%) followed by cotton (18%) and silk (6.7%). The latter representing only 0.5% of the imported volumes.

Please find hereafter details by family product.

Wool, despite being an expensive natural fibre, EU demand during 2018 kept a steady pace in volumes which combined with sharp rise in average prices resulted in a double-digit increase of imports in values.

As indicated above, cotton remained the natural fibre most in demand though volumes stabilised last year just below 2017 levels which combined with falling prices resulted in a decrease of the imports in euro.

Contrary to previous years, demand for silk, a luxury product, exploded in volume, compensating the 2017 weak demand. However, since the offer of fibres remains limited, prices jumped by a double-digit rate influencing the strong positive evolution in values.

EU-28 is the world's leading producer of flax fibres and imports do represent a fraction of the demand, but during 2018 demand increased and acquisition of non-EU flax fibres jumped in volumes and values as prices remained solid. The opposite holds true for the remaining vegetable fibres as volumes contracted heavily while prices progressed.

Looking at the ranking of EU natural fibres suppliers' points toward the need to consider the huge difference of the price of the fibres that differs among them and influence the values and volumes bought. Industrially speaking, referring at volumes is key for companies and allows understanding how the industrial consumption of fibres behaved in the EU pipeline.

India continued to be the principal source of fibres and especially of cotton. Overall EU bought nearly 50% more volumes of fibres which helped to move up its share in the imported materials back to the levels of 2016: 22% (14% in 2017). Despite this performance India is "only" the 4th supplier of natural fibres in value as average unit prices plummeted by -21% partially due to exchange rate evolutions. Turkey consolidated its ranking as second largest supplier in volumes with a share reaching fractionally more than 14% of natural fibre imports, boosting its sales to the EU-28 by +8% (+1.5% in 2017) thanks to cotton. However, as unit prices declined slowly Turkey remained the 5th supplier in euro terms.

Sri Lanka, being a huge supplier of other vegetable fibres (excluding flax), consolidated its position as third supplier though its share of shipments declined to 6.9% (7.7% in 2017), reflecting a further decrease by -12.2% in sales to the EU-28 following a slight improvement in unit prices. But considering the low-price fibres sold, this supplier is ranked only the 16th if we look at values only.

China was the top supplier in value terms and the 4th in tonnage. This discrepancy is due to the fact that this supplier is controlling the world's most luxury/rare fibres like silk, cashmere, etc. and also because China exports more transformed natural fibres. 2018 was a positive year in volume terms as China accounted for 5.9% of EU imports (5.2% in 2017) reflecting a double digit growth in tonnage that was accompanied by a strong upward trend in unit prices that helped China consolidating its leading position in value terms controlling 31.6% of the EU imports (27.7% in 2017).

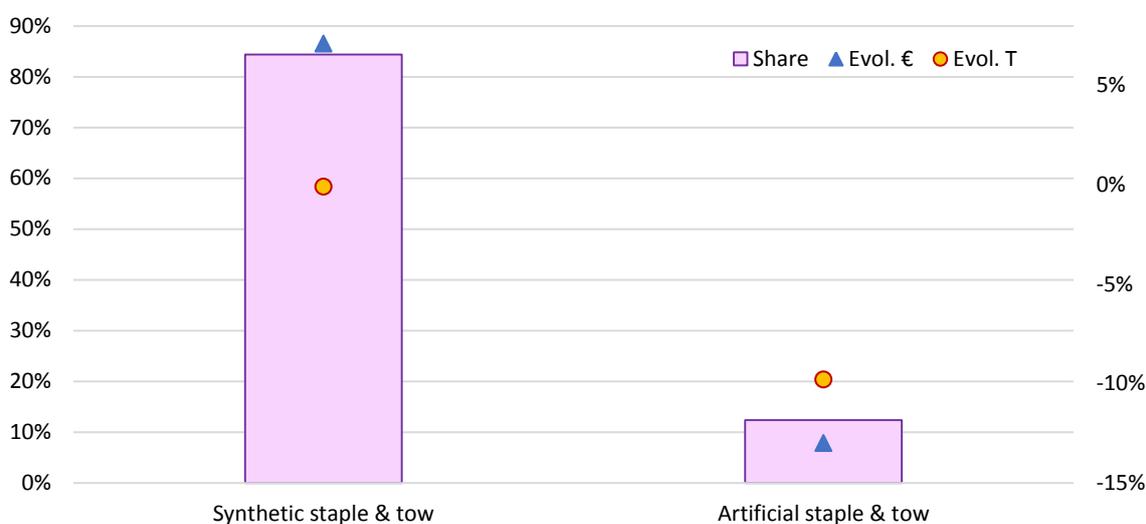

The volume of imports from Australia decreased by -2.7% after two years of constant growth (+28% in 2016-2017) representing 5.7% of imports by volume which guaranteed to rank 5th in tonnage. Average unit prices of Australian raw wool recorded a robust upward two-digit trend, similar to China, which helped consolidating Australia's 2nd rank in value terms (14.7% share in 2018). New Zealand shipments of wool grew, which allowed this supplier to control 5.4% of EU natural fibres imports by volume (5% in 2017). This was accompanied by a slight decrease in the average unit price that did not impede this supplier to consolidate its 6th position both in euro and tonnage. Finally, South Africa complete the podium in value term being the 3rd EU supplier of natural fibres thanks to its shipments of wool fibres, but volumes are limited making this country only the 9th supplier in volume (2.3% share).

Synthetic & artificial fibres – This category of textile products represented 3.9% of all extra-EU-28 textile imports in value but 10% in volume terms. As already mentioned, last year' EU-28 production of man-made fibres slowed down after a positive 2017 year and this trend was also visible at import level, at least in volume terms: -0.9% (-1.9% in 2017). However, average prices continued their steady growth (+5.1% after +3.9 in 2017) making total values recording solid developments.

Synthetic staple fibres strengthened their dominant position both in value and volumes controlling between 84% and 89% respectively of the shipments of this product family. This predominance was not contested by artificial fibres that were confronted by a slump in their trade for the second year in a row.

Again, it is worth considering volumes for a proper assessment of the supplier's role in EU imports and like in 2017 the podium was monopolised by, in decreasing order: (a) South Korea, ranks 1st in volumes (share 30.5%) but also in value terms (24.8% share), that managed to reinforce its leading position given that both volumes and unit prices grew regularly; (b) though exporting half than South Korea, China consolidated its 2nd position both in volumes (13.5% share) and values (12.6% share) thanks to positive evolutions in tonnages and average prices; (c) despite a new difficult year with dipping volumes, Taiwan ranked 3rd in volume (9.9% share) and benefitted from a solid growth making this supplier the 4th in euro terms.

Among the other top volume suppliers, EU importers sourced from India (rank 4th volumes; 7th in euro) much less than the previous negative year despite prices decreased slightly. This implies that overall the 2018 volumes sent by India were -21% below 2016 levels! Turkey (rank 5th and 6th) and Thailand (rank 6th and 8th) had also difficult times since volumes dropped even though values stabilised or increased steadily. Indonesia (rank 7th and 9th) benefitted from a positive year both for volumes and values like for Vietnam. The latter ranks 10th and is progressing regularly in values and volumes reflecting the effects of the Asian investments made there.

The USA and Japan provided a significantly smaller share of imports by volume compared to South Korea or China, respectively in 8th and 9th position. However,

EU importers did buy from those two suppliers higher added value synthetic and artificial fibres allowing Japan to rank 3rd and the USA 5th when referring at values.

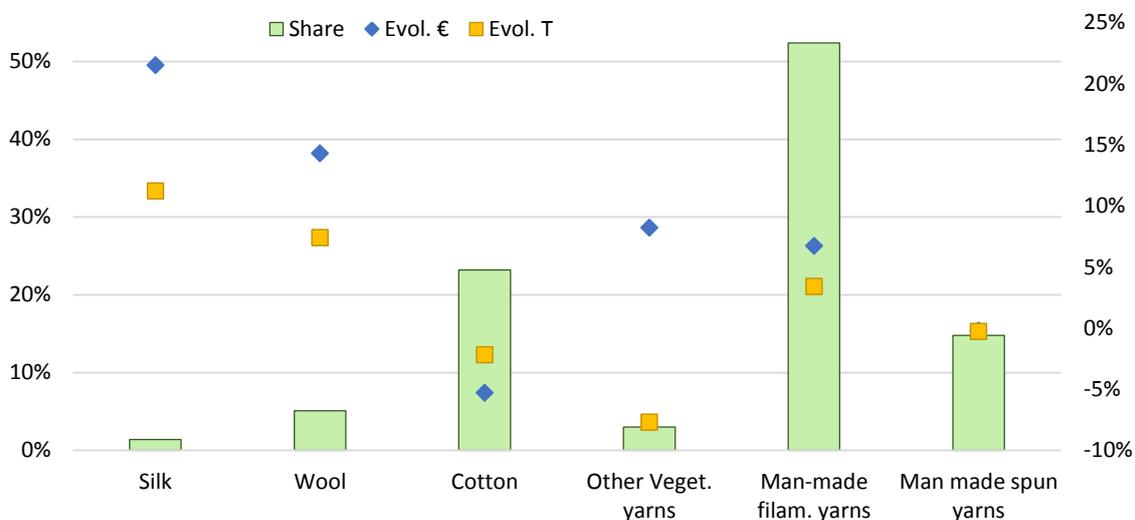

Thread and Yarn – One might expect that the slowing down of the economic activity during 2018 would translate in a decline of yarn and threads imports. This was not the case as world shipments to the EU-28 continued to grow, but at a lower rhythm, for the second or third year in a row both in value +3.6% (+4.6% in 2017) and in volume +1.3% (+1.5% in 2017). This sector category accounted for 12.6% of all extra-EU-28 textile imports in euro terms (12.3% in 2017) and approximately 16% of the textiles volumes bought outside the EU.

Silk and wool-type yarns did continue to progress by a two-digit rate in euro terms representing together 6.5% of the values but only 1% of the volumes of yarns and threads bought outside the EU.

Despite that fashion trends impacted negatively the cotton yarns business as values and volumes declined, they managed to maintain their second position representing just over 23% of the total yarns and threads world shipments to the EU in values (21% in tons).

Continuous filament yarns continue to be the number one purchase of EU yarn importers as it absorbed 61% of the volumes (60% in 2017) and 52.4% of the values (51% in 2017). Synthetic multi-filaments yarns accounted for the bulk of purchases in this category (87% in volume), even though the pace of evolution decreased compared to previous years: + 6.7% in euro and +2.4% in volumes (+9.3% and +4.6% respectively in 2017). All other types of filament yarns were also improving both in value and in volume terms. But, for the second consecutive year, yarn of synthetic or artificial staple fibres faced uncertain market conditions resulting in slight a decline (-0.2%) in values.

Yarn and threads EU importers bought for more than 64% of the volumes (60% in value) from the top-three suppliers. Moreover, 2018 witnessed a change in the podium with China overtaking the leading position thanks to impressive increases in volumes and unit prices which helped securing the number one position in volumes and values.

Indeed, Turkey poor results especially in value terms resulting from declining prices, did not allow this supplier to maintain its 2017 leading position. Though ranking 2nd, the Customs Union partner remains a key supplier for the EU weavers and knitters as it controls 23% of the EU imports both in euro and tonnage. The podium is completed by India (3rd) despite a negative year (like for fibres) considering a solid decrease in volumes, partially compensated by a hike in unit price. This reflected what happened with cotton yarns, representing half of India's shipments to the EU.

Among the other suppliers, there were significant double-digit increases in extra-EU-28 imports of thread and yarn (in value and volume) sourced from Japan (rank 7th in euro) and Vietnam (12th), especially in synthetic filament yarns. On the opposite, eleven suppliers of the top twenty ranking recorded a decline, sometimes quite robust, both in volumes and values. While Indonesia (rank 4th in value) witnessed this declining trend, the USA (5th) and South Korea (6th) managed to compensate their weak volume performances with an increase in their unit prices allowing values to grow and therefore to consolidate their positions.

Woven fabrics – Woven fabrics made up 16.8% of EU-28 textile imports in value and nearly 11% in volumes. Given the long-standing strength of this sector with EU production increasing for the second year in a row, extra-EU-28 imports of all fabric types combined could not expand any further like during 2017. In values, they slid again by -1.8% (-1.3% 2017) to €5.7bn, whilst volumes declined a little by -0.8% after two positive years (+2.5% in 2017, +7.5% in 2016); implying that lower prices (-1%) kept on driving sales.

Imports of woven fabrics continue to be dominated by the continuous filament man-made fibres business but trends are departing among the different groups of products, belonging to this part of the textile activity, influenced by fashion and fibres trends:

- Fabrics of synthetic and artificial filament yarn filament represent the largest share of fabric imports, both value (above 34%) and volume (nearly 37%). 2018 market conditions did consent to synthetic fil-

ament fabrics to record only weak progresses both in volumes and values; the latter being influenced by a stagnation in the average unit price. This was not the case for the artificial filament fabrics activity, accounting for 5% to 8% (respectively in volumes and euro), because imports in volume were boosted by a double-digit slump of the average unit price which slowed down the positive evolution of the values.

- Woven fabrics of synthetic and artificial staple fibres ranked 3rd in this segment as they absorbed 17% of the imports in euro and nearly 21% in volumes. Importers faced difficult market conditions principally due to the evolutions detected among the entire range of synthetic fabrics as volumes and values shrank sometimes quite heavily. Again, this was not the case for artificial-type of fabrics since volumes and values moved upward helped by a strong fall in the import unit price.
- For cotton fabrics, accounting for 28.5% of the woven fabrics imports in euro and slightly more than 29% in tons, 2018 was not a good year as the combination of price and volumes decline resulted into a quite strong drop in values. This was valid for the entire range of cotton fabrics, with denim fabrics representing the weakest business.
- The other natural fibres-related fabrics reached all together nearly 8% in euro and 5.5% in volumes of the imported woven fabrics and benefited overall from positive market evolutions:
 - EU importers doubled the volumes of silk-type fabrics bought across the world compared to 2017 helped by an exceptional fall of the average prices. Values moved up also but with a more reasonable yearly change. It should not be forgotten that silk-type fabrics did represent, last year, less than 1% of the total fabrics' imports in tons but more than 3% of the values;
 - The silk-type situation was exceptional even though imports of "other vegetable fibres" fabrics recorded also a double-digit upward trend in volumes, unit prices and values;
 - On the opposite, wool fabric importers have increased very slightly their imports in value despite that the unit prices stagnation did not allow to transfer the low increase of the volumes observed.
- Finally, special woven fabrics (14.4% in value but 9% in volumes of fabrics imported) did also report negative trends across nearly all specialities while average import unit price have faced opposing trends (from

-13% to +22%) among specialities:

- Pile fabrics dominate with 26% of the total extra-EU 28 special fabrics imports (38% in volumes) and, compared to other fabrics, was the only grouping recording a positive evolution both in value and volumes;
- Because of a double-digit jump of the average import unit price, volumes of imported narrow fabrics (25% of special fabrics imports in euro) tumbled causing in their fall also the values;
- While tapestries and quilted products imports collapsed, the embroidery fabrics purchases (23% of special fabrics imports in euro) dropped heavily both in values and volumes; the same holds true for labels and badges even though the decline was lower.

By far, China continue to be the leading supplier on woven fabrics both in values (above 41%) and volumes (47.5%) despite 2018 weak performances, pointing at the stabilisation of the exports towards the EU -0.1% in euro and -1.1% in tons. Its immediate competitor, Turkey (ranking 2nd), absorbed 18.7% of the 2018 EU imports in euro and has a size that is less than half the Chinese one in value and only less than 30% in volumes. But this is compensated by a quite high average import price (65% higher than China) compared to other non-industrialised suppliers. This said, last year was, for Turkish suppliers, also a stabilisation year as values (-0.7%) and volumes (+0.7%) progressed weakly.

Likewise, imports from Pakistanis' suppliers did decline somewhat their shipments to the EU (-1.7% in value, -0.7% in tons) and were able to preserve their 3rd ranking also because India, ranking 4th, lost ground both in volumes (-1.8%) and values (-8.1%) since import unit prices shrank by -6%. Switzerland managed to preserve its 5th position from South Korea attacks amid difficult market conditions because values and volumes declined heavily (-5.5% and -2.8% respectively).

Imports from China were concentrated in woven fabrics of synthetic and artificial filaments, representing 39.6% of Chinese fabrics bought, a +2.7% rise. Fabrics originating from Turkey were primarily cotton fabrics (34%, down from 36%) and woven fabrics of synthetic and artificial filaments (30%). Imports from Pakistan were mainly connected to cheap cotton fabrics for subsequent finishing (74% of total fabrics shipped by this supplier). India is supplying the EU with special fabrics (28%) predominantly embroidered as well as cheap cotton fabrics (27.6%). Finally, Switzerland sold mostly high quality finished and printed cotton (43,6%) and synthetic filament fabrics (25%).

From the above it is confirmed that 2018 was a deceiving year and this feeling is reinforced by the fact that among the top-twenty suppliers, eleven recorded a fall in their volumes and values sometimes by a double-digit rate like for Indonesia, Thailand or South Korea. On the opposite the remaining eight suppliers that managed to increase their market shares, all but one (Japan) are not in the top-ten ranking and are smaller-size suppliers. Additionally, few of them were able to boost their deliveries to the EU quite remarkably with double-digit increases like Vietnam and Saudi Arabia (both volumes and values) but also Belarus and Egypt (only volumes).

Knitted Fabrics – This range of products accounted for 4.6% of EU-28 textile purchases in value. Like in 2017 the imports of knitted fabrics from outside the EU-28 almost matched exports since the coverage ratio was virtually 100%. Under these conditions, the value of these imports fell by -4.0% (-0.7% in 2017) zeroing the 2016 positive evolution (+4.2%) while volumes were up again by +2.6% indicating that during the 2016-2018 period, EU suppliers shipped +10.4% more of knitted fabrics in tons to the EU. Conversely, local production over the same period moved upward by only +6.3%!

In most of the constituent parts of this category - particularly for wide stretch knit fabrics and “other” knitted fabrics - values had a slight downward trend. The exceptions were the increase by +2.4% for curtains fabrics whereas pile fabrics stagnated (+0.6%). These trends were the result of an overall fall in the import unit price of knitted fabrics, irrespective of their characteristics (price fall from -3.7% to -7.7%).

Imports - Knitted fabrics product families share (left) & yearly changes (right scale)

Knitted fabrics imports were the most concentrated business in the EU textiles. Indeed, the top three supplying countries did control 86% of the values and 91% of the volumes of EU-28 knitted fabrics imports, a share very similar to the one observed in 2017. The ranking did not change immensely despite the dynamism of the Chinese exporters.

Indeed, Turkey is still the leading supplier (39% of the values and 32% in tons) despite a very difficult 2018 year during which values and volumes were cut quite strongly: respectively by -9.4% and -6.6%. However, the pressure on Turkish shoulders did increase as Chinese volumes jumped (+12.4%) thanks to an aggressive price policy (-8%). Hence, China consolidated its second position in value (38%) while the Empire of the Middle exporters were already leading the volumes sold to EU (52.2%). South Korea completes the podium (3rd position) by controlling 10% of the values and slightly less than 7% of the volumes sold to EU despite adverse market conditions (-5.2% in euro and -7.8% in tons) during 2018.

Finally, market conditions were hostile also for another eleven of the remaining top twenty EU suppliers (small in terms of size), some of whom saw their shipments crashing due to double-digit negative trends (i.e. Egypt, Taiwan, India, Indonesian, Morocco or Pakistan).

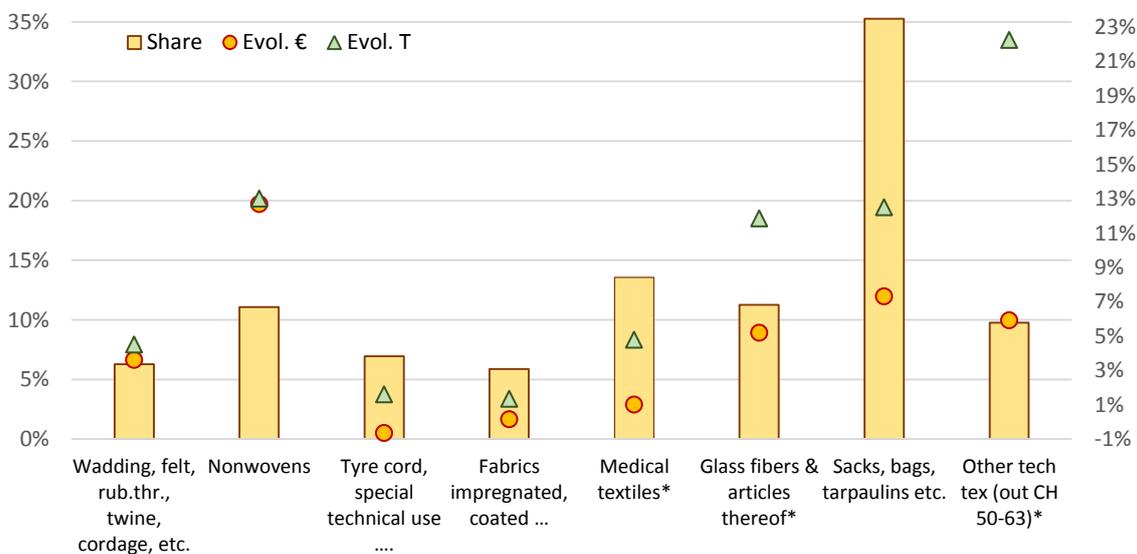

Technical Textiles – As it was the case for exports, nearly all the main technical textile product categories were in demand to a greater or lesser extent making this category one of the most dynamic among the textile’s products bought worldwide. Technical textiles already represented a total of €11.7bn or 34% share of the total EU-28 textile imports in value (31.8% in 2017), while they controlled more than 36% of the volumes shipped to the EU. During 2018, these imports made solid gains: + 5.3% in value and +11.9% in volumes strengthening the trend started in 2016. Indeed, looking at the 2016-2018 period imported technical textiles moved upward by and impressive +11.8% in euro and a staggering +27.9% in tons.

With the exception of a few minor product sub-categories whose import values were slightly down, all others recorded exceptional results considering the economic situation:

- Nonwovens accounted for nearly 11% of extra-EU-28 imports of technical textiles in euro and are among the most dynamic part of it as shipments from outside the EU raised by +13% both in value and volumes.
- Felts, wadding, special yarns, twine, nets, etc. represent 6% share of extra-EU-28 imports in this product family and they progressed quite strongly in volumes while values moved-up modestly due to a slight decline in price.
- Coated textile fabrics and other technical textiles: these made up 13% in euro of extra-EU-28 imports in this category and trends were identical as the one observed for exports: values stagnated while volumes grew modestly.

Imports - Technical textiles main product families share (left) & yearly changes (right scale)

- Other made up technical textile articles, including the new high added value products accounted collectively for the largest and growing share of the technical textiles (70% in euro and 74% in tons). With few exceptions, products in this sub-group benefitted from a steady pace of their global shipments which led to two-digit increase in volumes resulting from substantial fall in average prices:

 Other Technical textiles outside HS chapters 50 to 63

- Medical applications did represent 14% of the total extra-EU 28 technical textiles imports and were not part of the most dynamic products both in values and volumes;
- Glass fibres fabrics and articles thereof, corresponding to a good 11% of total technical textiles shipments to the EU in euro and 25% in tons, faced difficult market conditions since average unit price

- es recorded the second largest decline limiting partially the increase in values;
- Saks, bags, tarpaulins etc. dominate with more than 35% share in euro and 31% in volumes of the total extra-EU 28 technical textiles imports and were among the most dynamic products in volumes while values increased sturdily;
- The sharp slump of the average import prices was at the root of the robust growth in volumes of the world deliveries to EU for the remaining high-value technical textiles (share of 10%) included in other HS chapters; values also progressed quite solidly.

Among the top twenty suppliers of technical textiles only three suppliers faced negative trends in values and volumes (USA, South Korean (ranking 8th) and Taiwan (11th)) while deliveries to the EU from Turkey, India, Egypt (10th), Russia (13th), Bangladesh (19th) and Ukraine (20th) flourished thanks to double-digit evolutions in euro and tons (from +15% to +51%). The same holds true for shipments from Japan (6th), Israel (9th), Tunisia (15th) and Thailand (16th) whose operators managed to record double-digit evolutions inly for their volumes sold (from+11% to +20%).

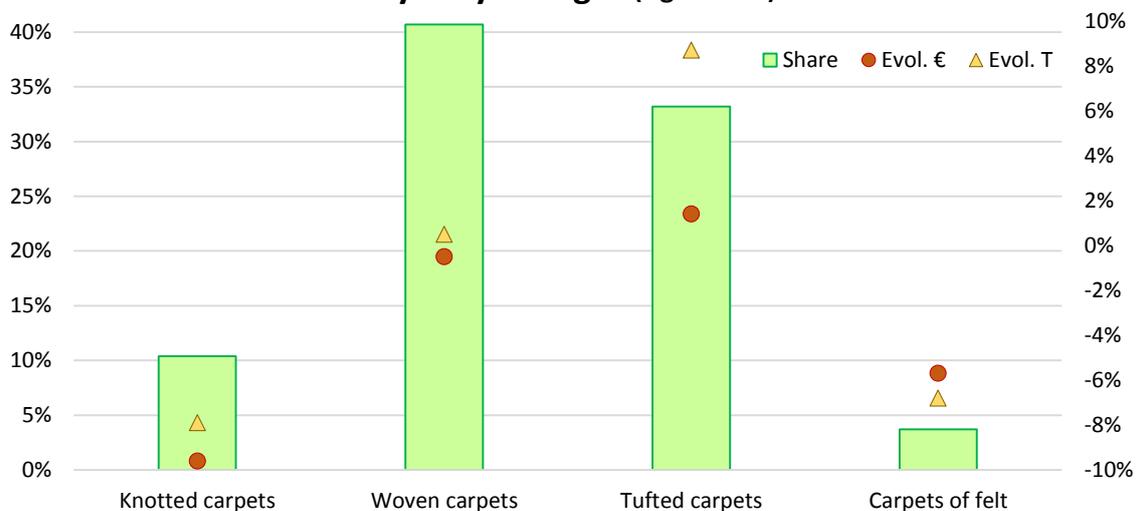

This said, with nearly €4.9bn or 41.4% share, China is far ahead to its immediate competitors of technical textile suppliers to the EU-28, but once more the rhythm of change was much lower compared to other trading countries: +3.6% rise in euro (+6.6% in tons). The USA maintained their 2nd position even though sales to the EU were down by -1.9% in value and by -0.7% in volumes, a result allowing the USA controlling 12% of this segment in 2018 even if such results did contrast with the excellent 2017 year. The third major supplier remains Turkey where local exporters worked hard to maintain their ranking (7% of purchases in this sector) because India (4th) got dangerously close (6% share in euro). This explains partially the double-digit evolution noted for both suppliers. Despite opposing trends between volumes (+5.6%) and values (-5.6%) Switzerland managed to preserve its fifth position even though its' ranking is growingly challenged by Japan.

Between the top five suppliers some difference does exist in terms of product mix shipped to the EU: China sold predominantly tarpaulins, medical textiles, coated fabrics as well as floor and dish cloth; the US traders did ship predominantly medical textiles, glass fibres and article thereof as well as nonwovens; EU imported mostly nonwoven and sacks and bags from Turkey whereas India sent chiefly sacks and bags. Finally, Switzerland focused on medical textiles, articles for technical use and on impregnated and coated fabrics.

Rugs & Carpets – After two positive years, the 2018 imports of carpet and rugs faced difficult market conditions. Despite a slower but positive growth in the volumes bought worldwide compared to previous years (+3.7% compared to +6.2% in 2017, +8.6% in 2016) the fall in the average import price (-4.1%) did push import values to stagnation (-0.6% instead of +2.6% and +2.3% respectively in 2017 and 2016).

Within this category, accounting for 4.5% of all extra-EU-28 textile imports in value, the woven carpet business did stagnate last year though representing nearly 41% of total carpets and rugs in euro terms. This was not the case for the tufted carpet business, the second in importance with 33% of the world deliveries of carpets to the EU in euro, where the strong decline in the average prices (-6.8%) did translate into a solid evolution of the volumes (+8.7%) at the expenses of the values (+1.4%). On the other hand, knotted carpets shipments, representing 10% of carpet and rugs EU import, and carpets of felt, the smallest part of this family, declined both in value and volumes.

Carpets and rugs witnessed a “ranking revolution” considering that Turkey lost its leadership to the benefit of China and India. Indeed, thanks to a remarkable double-digit evolution of its exports to EU (+ 10.9% in euro and +15.9% in tons), the Empire of the Middle ranked first in 2018 (3rd in 2017) and controls more than 26% of the EU purchases in value (29.5% in volumes). Despite deceptive but still positive performances, just above EU carpets and rugs imports average, India consolidated its second position by attracting 25.7% of EU importers spending in value.

While still being the main supplier in the volume of carpets and rugs (31%), Turkey ranked third in value terms (24.3% share in EU imports) as yearly trends both in values and volumes recorded the worst performance among the top five suppliers (-9.9% in euro and

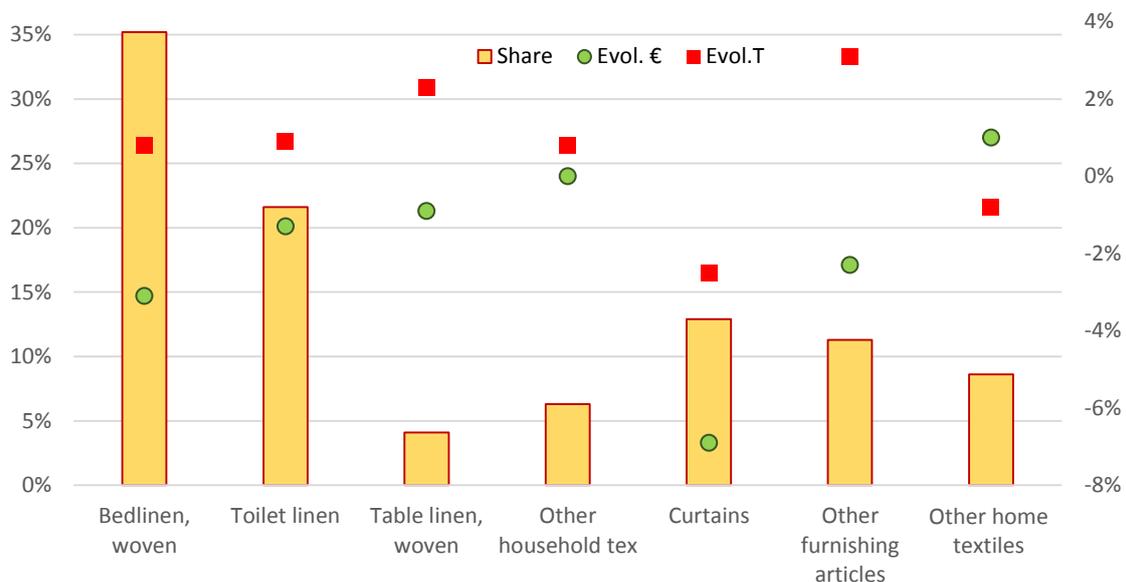

-5.8% in tons). Egypt (4th) and Switzerland (5th) completed the top five ranking despite patterns of trade comparable to the ones of Turkey.

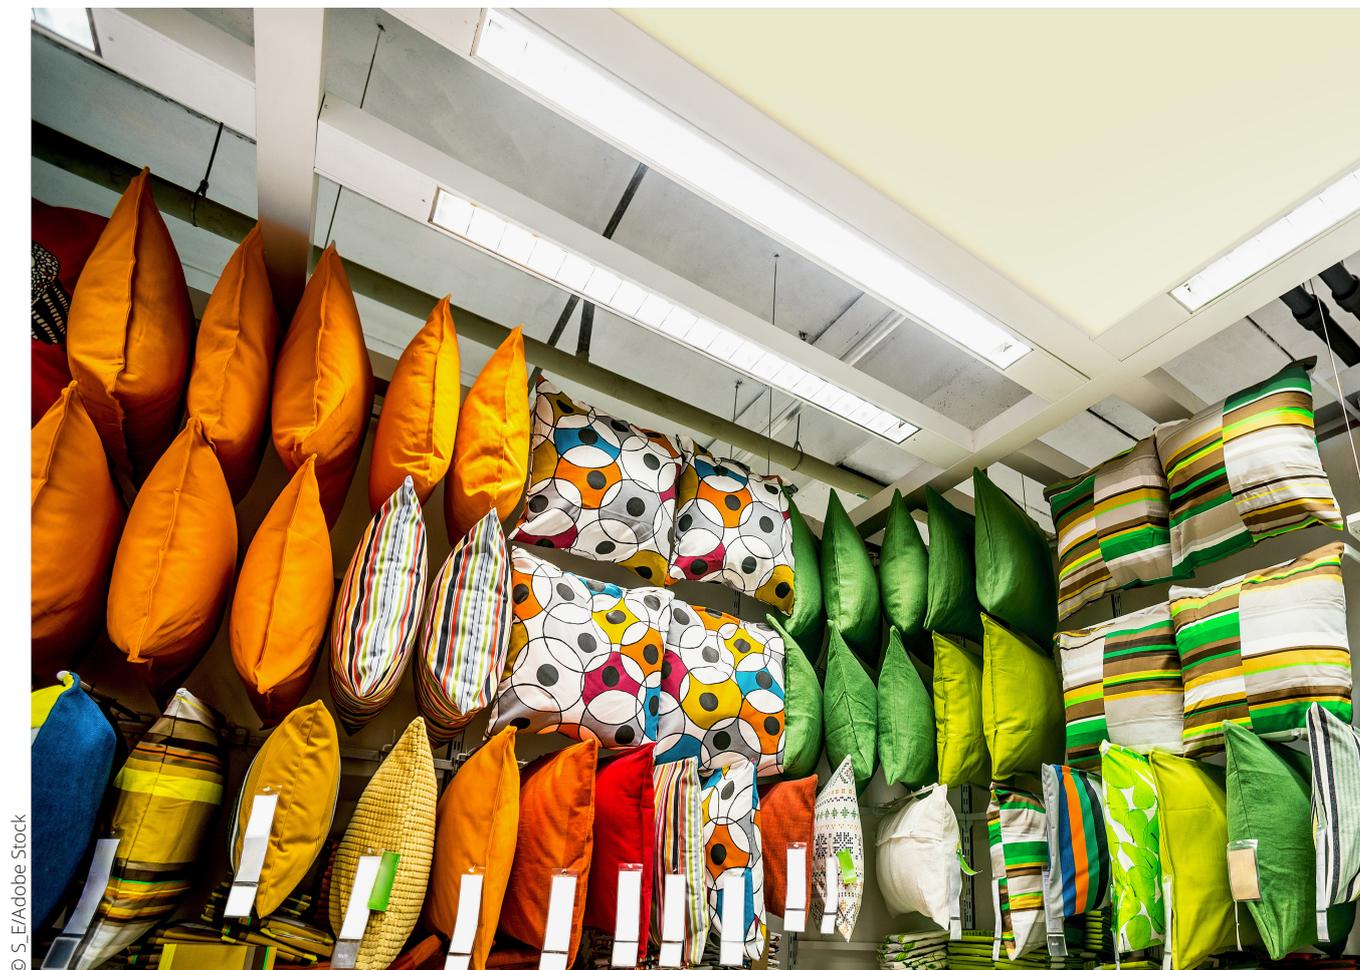

There were also spectacular growths in imports among the smaller size suppliers like: Vietnam (+3190% - 18th supplier); South Korea (+47% - 20th); Ukraine (+46% - 13th); South Africa (+37% - 17th); Bangladesh (+23% - 11th) and Serbia (+14% - 9th).

Home Textiles – Home textiles are the second largest textile imported in value, the third in tons, but their activity is closely linked to the housebuilding and real estate businesses that are very sensitive to the economic environment. Considering the economic uncertainties as well as the EU production rebound for such type of products, imports of home textiles managed to stabilise their volumes but witnessed a drop in their values (-2.5%).

These weak developments were visible across the entire products portfolio: [a] none of the product groupings, but one, benefitted from a positive evolution in value terms; [b] to remain competitive on these markets average imports unit prices did fall limiting the effects of any volume increases and the worst situation was observed in the curtains and other furnishing businesses; [c] bed and toilet linens importers, accounting together for 57% of the total imports, were unable avoid a drop in their sales despite the feeble increase of their volumes (below +1%).

Sales receded for thirteen of the top-twenty suppliers in value terms while only five managed to increase their deliveries to the EU-28 in volumes and values. This shows how competitive and difficult the home textiles markets are.

Besides that, and as indicated above, it is one of the most concentrated groupings, with China dominating the market as one third of the values and more than 38% in tons originated from this supplier in 2018. Amid fierce competition, Chinese exporters stabilised their deliveries in euro at high levels (-0.7%) while they improved slightly the volumes sold. Pakistan holds firmly its second ranking by controlling 27% of the imports and nearly 30% of the volumes. Although, traders from this country were able to increase their sales in volumes for the second year in a row (+4.1%) but this went at the expense of the values reflecting a strong decline (-4%) of the import unit price.

Even though Turkey completes the podium and maintains still a comfortable margin against its immediate competitor: India, the Customs Union operators did record the second consecutive declining year. Indeed, values collapsed during 2018 (-7.6% following -4.2% in 2017) as it was also the case for volumes (-6.5% against -2.8% in 2017). This implied that Turkey lost ground compared to its two front-runners while controlling only 13.9% of the 2018 EU home textiles imports in euro and 10.5% in tons. India ranked fourth among the top EU suppliers, but its performances worsened though to a lesser extent than the one faced by Turkey (values: -4.9%, volumes: -1.8%). As a matter of fact, Indian exporters delivered 10.7% of the EU imports of home textiles in values and nearly an equivalent percentage in terms of volumes.

There were also remarkable changes among smaller size suppliers: there were substantial gains in value terms for Switzerland the ninth supplier (+32%) and Cambodia the seventh seller (+29%) but also strong setbacks like for Indonesia (-30%), Thailand (-10%) and Morocco (-11%).

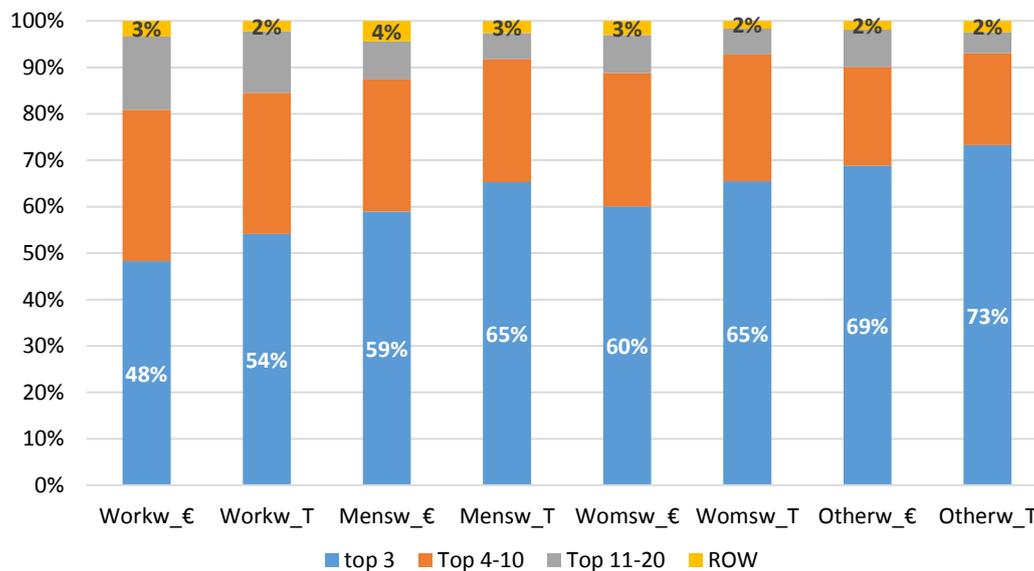

Imports of Clothing Products

Preliminary considerations

Contrary to textiles imports where the top three suppliers did play a key role accounting for a very high share of total imports, the clothing arena behaves differently. Indeed, garments suppliers' concentration is more evenly distributed, in particular among the top ten suppliers' whose share on values varies between 81% and 90% while for textiles the range fluctuated from 81% to 96% of extra-EU imports in euro.

Top suppliers' role in Clothing imports by main families (€, tons)

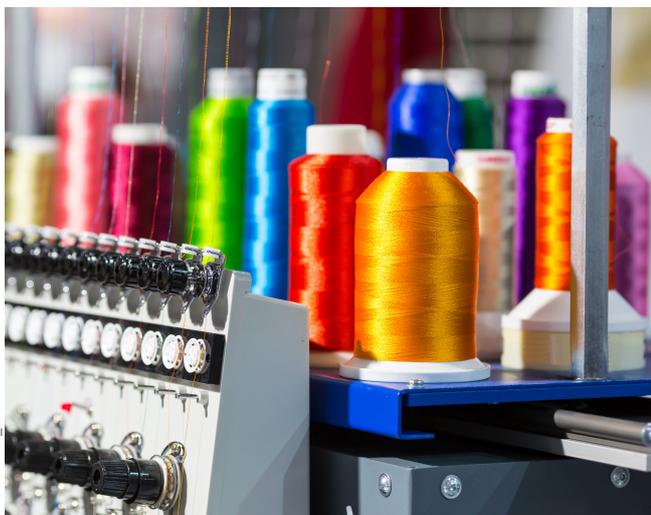

Moreover, the role of the "Rest of the World" sellers remains limited for the clothing articles as they attracted between 1.5% and 4% of the total products shipped to the EU depending on values or volumes.

among these countries seems more evenly distributed compared to other regrouping as the EU importers did buy in 2018 from the top three contributors "only" 48% of the total imports.

Once more the least concentrated markets appear to be workwear event though the top ten supplying countries control 80% of total deliveries. But the distribution

On the opposite the "other garments" grouping is the most concentrated as the EU importers buy 90% of these products from the first ten suppliers. Please find hereafter more details by family product.

Workwear – Mirroring the scenario in exports, imports of work clothing constituted a tiny proportion of total extra-EU-28 clothing imports and were fractionally higher in 2018 (1.9%) compared to 2016 and 2017 (1.8%).

In 2018, extra-EU-28 workwear imports increased by a robust +7.5% in value (+4.4% in 2017, +6.9% in 2016) and progressed slightly in volumes (+1.6% instead of -5.0% in 2017 and +7.3% in 2016), leaving the average unit price up by + 5.8% a lower rhythm compared to 2017 (+9.8%) ,but making this grouping the one with the highest unit price growth.

In 2018, more than 84% of the imported workwear garments were intended for the men's market and looking at the purchases for the different elements, we saw strong demand in value terms for some articles (jackets and trousers) across menswear and womenswear. Moreover, the demand was restrained for women's type products by the rising unit cost which reduced the volume of imports.

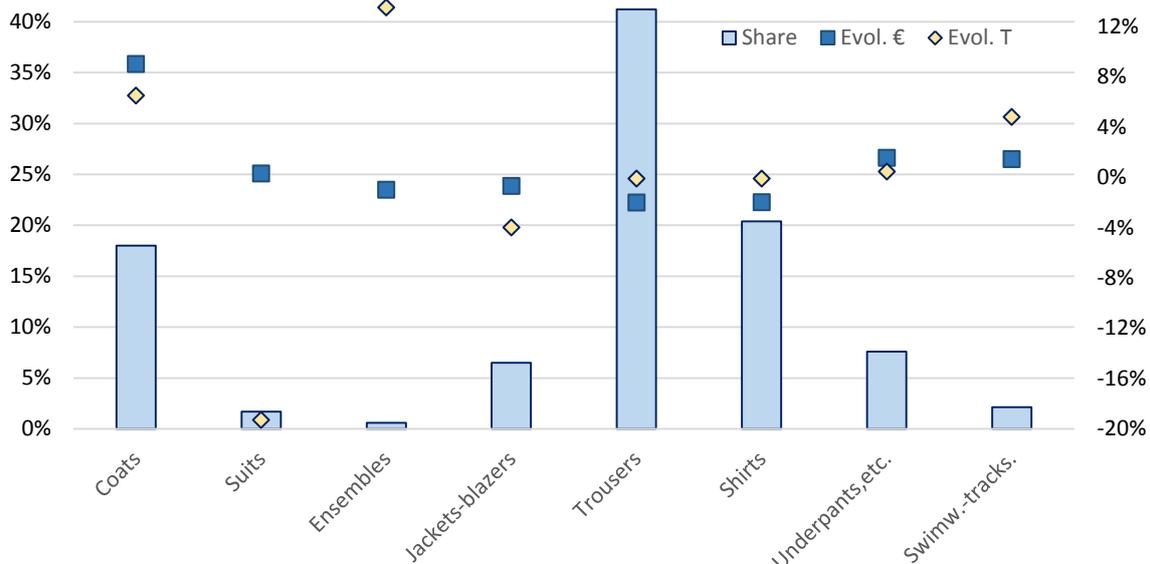

China, Tunisia and Bangladesh were the leading countries with China ranking first in values thanks to a double-digit increase of the unit import price but this translated into a dip in the volumes shipped to the EU for the second consecutive years. Chinese companies did grasp nearly 23% of the values sent to the EU but more than 31% of the tons bought despite a fall of -26.7% during the 2017-2018 period. Tunisia managed to preserve its second position from its immediate competitor despite a stagnation in value and a limited downward move of the shipments in volumes to the EU. Though the Mediterranean supplier holds a share of 16% of the workwear bought by EU importers in value, this represented only 11.8% of the volumes sold. The latter measure is fractionally higher than the one of Bangladesh (11%) while in euro terms Bangladeshi companies accounted for little more than 9% of sales despite recording during 2018 a jump of +21% in values and +26% in tons. This supplier, during the 2016-2018 period, saw its deliveries of workwear to the EU jump by +71% in tonnage!

Among the top-twenty ranking, the nine suppliers originating from the Euromed Area⁵ managed last year to increase slightly the values sold to control 37.6% of the workwear imports in euro but only 27% in volumes as 2018 was again a negative year. This trend contrasted with the positive double-digit evolution of the nine Asian suppliers (excluding China)⁶ whose exports jumped on average by +14% in values and volumes reaching a share of, respectively, 32.4% and 35.8%. The main difference is the type of product sold as the Asian ones have an average price that is 35% lower than the Euromed Area one.

Menswear – Compared to 2016 and 2017, menswear imports remained unchanged last year despite strong demand from the retail sector and e-commerce. Indeed EU purchasing of men's clothing climbed to €20.7bn (24.1% of total clothing imports), which marked a slight retreat despite the +1.9% increase in euro in 2018 (-0.5% in 2017) and +2.3% in volume (+0.6% in 2017), leading to a new slight -0.4% decline in the average unit price (-1.2% in 2017). This is the third year of unit price decrease and the fall benefited mainly retailers.

5 In decreasing order of importance: Tunisia (2nd), Morocco (5th), Macedonia (7th); Albania (11th); Bosnia & Herzegovina (13th); Ukraine (14th); Moldova (15th); Serbia (18th) and Turkey (19th)

6 In decreasing order of importance: Bangladesh (3rd), Vietnam (4th), Pakistan (6th), Laos (8th), Sri Lanka (9th), India (10th); Cambodia (17th) and Indonesia (20th)

The three main imported menswear items representing nearly 80% were: trousers (41.2%), shirts (20.4%) and coats (18%) and once more only coats were in greater demand for the second consecutive year while shirts continue to lose ground after a new downward year. This was also the case for jackets and blazers as shipments to the EU declined quite strongly in volumes while underwear as well as sport related garments grew with a slightly lower than the average rhythm. Finally, again demand for suits and ensembles was the lowest of any menswear category but with diverging trends in volumes.

Even though China was still the top supplier of menswear, its share of total imports continued to be eroded: it accounted for 26.1% of the value of imports (28.1% in 2017) and 28.9% of their volume (33.1% in 2017). Despite negative 2018 trends particularly in volume terms (-7.5%), China was still ahead of the second ranked supplier by a comfortable but rapidly decreasing margin. The major menswear imports originating from China were: coats (38% of Chinese sales in this category), up by +3.1%; and trousers (24.6% of Chinese sales), again down by -3% (-5.1% in 2017).

The second position remains in the hands of Bangladesh. After a 2017 receding year, this supplier saw its 2018 sales to the EU-28 jump by +12.2% in volume terms beating the previous 2016 record whereas values were +5.2% stronger. Trousers (52.6% of sales to the EU-28 in this category) and shirts (29% of sales to the EU-28) continued to dominate exports but yearly trends deviate since trousers expanded by +4.2% in euro (-2.2% in 2017) while shirts were -0.3% weaker again in 2018 (-1.7% in 2017).

Similar results were detected for imports sourced from Turkey, the third-ranked supplier: these were +0.3% higher in value terms (-2.5% in 2017; +3.5% in 2016) and +2.3% up in volumes (-3.1% in 2017, +4.5% in 2016). Most of this stabilisation or slight improvement was due to the performances of the entire range of products except the main one: trousers (46% of Turkish sales to the EU-28) as these fell again by -3.0% (-6.1% in 2017).

Among the top ten suppliers, Cambodia (ranking 8th) and Myanmar (10th) confirmed their previous' years performances and strengthened their positions, mainly in volume terms, thanks to overwhelming double-digit increases to the disadvantage of more traditional suppliers like Pakistan (4th), Vietnam (5th) and India (6th) because the three latter faced negative or below the average (Vietnam) performance. Also, Tunisia (7th), notwithstanding well above menswear average results (+5.9% in euro) and Morocco (9th) because of weak developments (+1.3%), lost ground and are under immediate threat from the two Asian suppliers.

This mixed result from the three main Euromed suppliers is also reflected in the evolutions observed for the remaining Euromed dominant suppliers⁷ that altogether improved by +4.8% their sales to the EU despite diverging trends with Macedonia, Ukraine and Bosnia & Herzegovina exporters losing market shares.

Womenswear – For the third successive year womenswear imports improved thanks to positive results reached in 2018 both in value: +3.3% hike (+2.2% in 2017, +0.8% in 2016) and in volumes: +3.8% increase (+3.2% in 2017; +6.6% in 2016), leading to a new marginal -0.5% decline in average unit prices (-0.9% in 2017; -5.5% in 2016). As a matter of fact, shipments to the EU of womenswear raised at €30.9bn (36.6% of total apparel imports).

Slightly more than two third of the purchases in value (70% in tons) resulted from: trousers (31.3%), skirts and dresses (19%) as well as coats (17.4%). The latter two benefitted from positive market evolutions in values (+7.7%) while prices diverged: -3.0% for skirts and dresses and +1.3% for coats, impacting accordingly yearly values. Instead trousers had a fairly positive year with volumes progressing more than values as prices declined (respectively +3.7%, +1.7% and -1.9%).

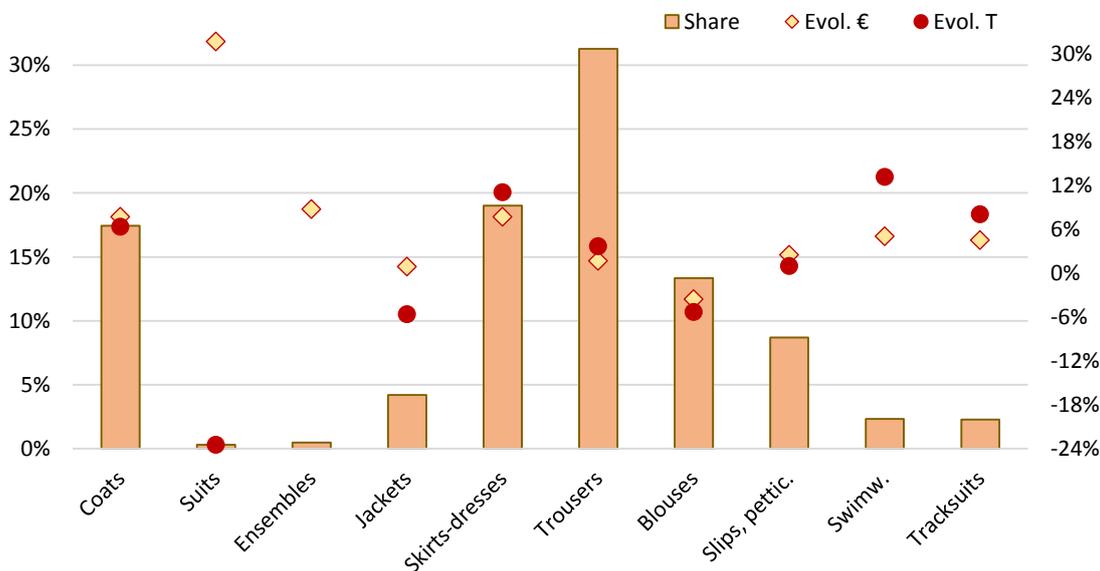

Among the other principal shipped women garments, accounting for nearly 27% of the total women garments imported in values, EU consumers have been unattractive to blouses whose sales have fallen dramatically in volumes (-5.3%) due to a spectacular price increase (+9.7%) thus limiting the decline in values; on the opposite underwear improved their sales despite a limited surge in the average unit price; lastly, "ath-leisure" garments (swim, track etc.) that are much on

7 In decreasing order of importance: Switzerland (13th), Egypt (14th), Macedonia (15th), Albania (16th), Ukraine (17th) and Bosnia & Herzegovina (19th) demand among youngsters had a very strong growth in volumes (+10%) whereas values progressed fairly above the average despite prices contracted dramatically. Interestingly the global supply of athleisure for girls in the EU represent a market 3.2 times bigger than the one for boys.

The same countries and the same dominant suppliers as for menswear featured in the rankings of the main womenswear suppliers.

China continued to be the main supplier. In 2018, EU purchases from China were -1.3% lower in value terms (-0.7% in 2017, -7.1% in 2016) and dropped by -6.5% in volume terms (+1.7% in 2016-2017). Echoing the situation for menswear, though this country was still ahead of its competitors by a huge margin, Chinese sales to the EU-28 suffered constant erosion during the last years. 2018 confirmed this as their share of imports of women's clothing stood at 34% in value terms and 36.1% in tons (40.2% in 2017!).

87% of the goods supplied by China in the womenswear category were accounted for by four items: coats (29.4%), +1.9%; skirts and dresses (19.9%), -0.5%; blouses (9.7%), -9.0%; trousers (18.5%), -2.6%; and underwear (9.4%), -2.0%.

Bangladesh consolidated its second ranking as 2018 was a very positive year: values increased by +8.2% (+4.7% in 2017) and volumes were up by +14.7% (+6% in 2017). Its share of womenswear imports progressed to 14.4% (val.) and 20.1% (vol.). Although trousers continued to be the biggest exported product to the EU (52% - with performances below the average) much of the Bangladeshi growth was subject to the very good results reached by the other types of women's clothes except blouses, suits and ensembles that lowered in importance.

Turkey continues to be the preferred traditional and nearby supplier adding +4.7% to its sales (+3.3% in 2017) and +10.2% in tons. By controlling 11.7% of EU purchases in euro and 9.2% of total volumes bought worldwide, the Customs Union partner ranked 3rd. Two third of the Turkish sales of womenswear in EU were the fact of trousers, skirts and dresses.

With no surprise the Southeast Asian suppliers exhibited strong growths in volumes and partially in values: Cambodia (5th supplier; +6.6% in euro ad +11.4% in tons), Vietnam (6th; +4.8%, +14.7%) and particularly Myanmar (7th; +61.9%, +68.3%). All together they account for 11.7 % of the purchases in euro and 13% in volumes. Such performances impacted mostly the remaining Indian subcontinent suppliers accounting for 11% of the womenswear supplies: India (4th), Pakistan (10th) and Sri Lanka (11th) had all together a negative 2018 year with values and volumes slightly decreasing (from -2.9% and -0.8% respectively).

On the opposite, Morocco (5th) and Tunisia (9th), accounting for 7.7% share in the EU imports in euro, managed to consolidate their ranking as together they recorded an increase above the average in this regrouping (+5.6% in euro; +6.0% in tons). Such positive trend was also the fact of the remaining dominant Euro-romed suppliers⁸ that altogether improved by +7.1% their sales to the EU despite the weak evolution of Macedonia.

Other articles of clothing and accessories – 38.7% of the 2018 EU garments imports was accountable to this regrouping, dominated by knitted garments and accessories and amounting to €32.6bn. This category exhibited a +1.5% increase in euro (+0.9% in 2017), a +3.1% rise in volume (+1.7% in 2017) resulting from the a -1.5% decline in average unit prices.

Nearly 61% of the purchases were made in the following categories: jerseys, pullovers, cardigans (34%) and t-shirts (27.4%). Even though both items recorded positive trends in volumes, they faced opposing evolutions in values terms: t-shirts (-1.4%) were in a weaker position compared to pullovers (+5%) reflecting also strong departing changes in their import unit prices (respectively -5% and +0.3%).

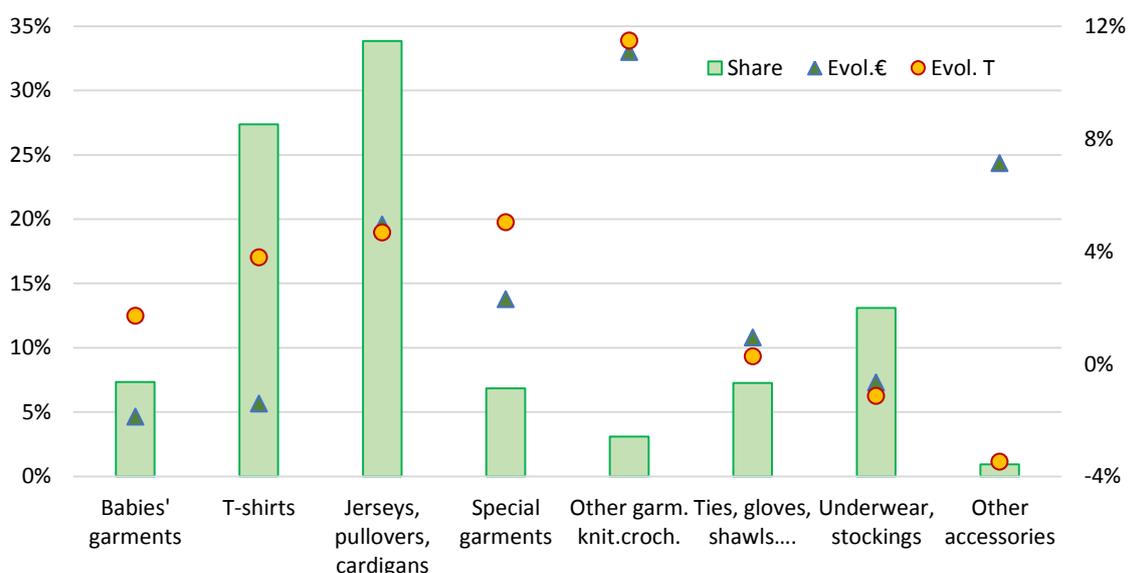

Among the other type of garments, it is worth mentioning that weak EU consumption demand impacted negatively values for babies' garments, stocking and bras despite stabilization or weak improvements in the volumes bought worldwide. On the opposite special garments benefitted from very positive evolution allowing it to account for around 7% of the EU imports; the same was true for the other knitted and crocheted garments for which double-digit rise in value and volume was noted.

This part of the garments imports is characterised by the highest concentration of sales among the main suppliers and without surprise the top three sellers were China, Bangladesh and Turkey.

Like for other regroupings, China was the main supplier (34% in euro) but this share is regularly falling and 2018 was no exception to the rule: EU importers spent -2.2% less in euro (-11.1% for 2016 and 2017) and imported -4% in volumes; the later trend was contrasting with previous years weak trends (+1.8% for 2016-2017). Once more the main item sold to the EU-28, pullovers, (36.8% of Chinese sales) fell back again by -1.8% in euro (-3.0% in 2017).

Despite slackening performances, China maintained a comfortable lead over its immediate competitor: Bangladesh. The latter imports expanded by +5.5% in values (+8% for 2016-2017) and by +10.5% in tons

8 In decreasing order of importance: Switzerland (13th), Macedonia (15th), Ukraine (16th-), Albania (17th), Egypt (19th) and Moldova (20th)

(+11.8% for 2016-2017) making 2018 the best of the last three years. As its average import price was 21% below EU import average and one of the lowest of the top twenty ranking, Bangladesh continues to be recognised for its low-end products; thus, this country import share continues to climb absorbing 21.8% of the values purchased by EU consumers for such type of products (27% in volumes). The main item sold to the EU-28 continue to be t-shirts (45.6% of Bangladesh's sales) that expanded by +2.2% (+2.8% in 2017), but pullovers (37.1% of EU imports in euro) did grow much more strongly (+8.4% in euro). Both products performances are linked to strong average price cuts as volumes increased respectively by +9 % and +11%.

Turkey ranked third as shipments stabilised slightly by +0.1% in value terms (-0.6% in 2016-2017) and rose by +3.3% in volumes (+3.5% in 2016-2017) for an unchanged 13.1% share of imports (10.6% in volume). Like for Bangladesh, the main item sold to the EU-28, t-shirts (41.8% of Turkish sales), decreased by -6.6% in values (-3.9% in 2017) whereas pullovers did gain in importance because deliveries jumped by +7.1% in value going up to 32.5% share in total EU purchase of other garments from the Custom's Union partner.

Finally, there were significant increases in imports sourced from other Asian countries such as: Cambodia (5th supplier; +4.8% in euro and +8.8% in tons), Vietnam (6th; +12%, +15.7%), Pakistan which has the lowest average unit price (7th; +7.5, +14.6%) and especially Myanmar (10th; +54.9%, +58.9%) whose results are losing slightly impetus in values compared to previous years (+79% in 2017 and +73.4% in 2016). These results went to the expenses of India (4th) who is under the immediate threat of Cambodian exporters because EU bought -2.5% garments less in value (-1% in tons) from India. Sri Lanka (7th) is instead losing ground from Pakistan despite above the average changes (+2.3% in euro and + 6.8% in tons).

In the North African nations, Morocco (9th; -2.2%, +0.7%) and Tunisia (11th; -2.2%, -5.9%) showed weak performances and are losing ground compared to their immediate Asian competitors even though their average unit price is well above the other competitors, in particular for Tunisia, indicating that their products tend to have a higher value content. While Egypt, Albania and Switzerland increased their market share, though being confidential suppliers of the EU market for such products, the US exporters recorded the strongest double-digit decline among the top twenty suppliers.
