British Textiles - autumn/winter 2020/21

There will be an astonishing variety of texture, colour and pattern from the British mills in their A/W 20-21 textile collections.

This will range from quieter, understated luxury fibres and fine wools in muted tones through to dramatic oversized patterns. Sophisticated tweeds both plain and with micro patterns will become much finer and lighter in weight, whilst unisex looks have an unexpected touch which is both soft and dry. By way of contrast, the fluid and rippled surfaces in silk and silk blends add a stylish layer of surface interest. Materiality is being re-invented both from a need to genuinely engage with eco awareness and an aesthetic drift towards glamour and luxury.

We welcome a new and visionary textile season.

Debonair

Confident yet discreet theme based on British tailored neo-classic looks, influenced by heritage and modern thinking on sustainability. This quiet narrative is full of robust thinking for a low energy future. Here the natural raw material is unmistakable and traceable, texture is key and adornment takes a back seat. Renewable fibre components are gathered together and pioneering ideas are applied to create the best in British textiles.

Amplified

The mood embraces disruption - reformed and recycled materials together with global inspiration meet in a common collision - full of creativity and free thought. A strong and gritty look that puts sustainability and climate change at the heart of things. Imaginative mixes where trash becomes treasure and accidental clashes create abundant energy.

Sensory

Here nothing is designed to jolt the senses, the look is one of quiet appreciation of harmonious beauty; influence comes from craft, interiors and fashion. A quietly innovative story that plays with densities in layers of insulated, brushed, translucent and transparent fabrics. Patterns emerge following tiny repetitions and crystal-like formations; light diffuses through fragile veils whilst glazed sheen adds an otherworldly aspect.

In partnership with:

The Campaign for Wool

The Campaign for Wool is a global endeavour initiated by its patron, His Royal Highness The Prince of Wales, in order to raise awareness amongst consumers about the unique, natural and sustainable benefits offered by wool. Encouraging collaboration between an international community of woolgrowers, major fashion designers, retailers, manufacturers, artisans and interior designers, the Campaign has been instrumental in educating consumers about the versatility of wool, and reconnecting them with its myriad of uses – from luxurious fine merino knitwear to fire-retardant insulation for the home.

Since its launch in 2010, The Campaign for Wool has influenced a new demand for wool on an international scale, and its efforts have seen an outstanding threefold increase in the price farmers receive for their wool. In 2016, HRH The Prince of Wales announced the launch of the Dumfries House Declaration, which aims to become the standard bearer of good-practice in the wool industry. Every year, The Campaign for Wool stages Wool Week, a week-long festival of events and workshops celebrating wool in all its guises.

The Campaign for Wool is delighted to be collaborating with UKFT in promoting British weavers of quality wool fabrics to an international audience at Première Vision.
